WHOLE OF CHINA STIRRED BY TIENTSIN BOMBING INCIDENT POSSIBLE EXCUSE FOR YET ANOTHER JAPANESE INCURSION

A special appeal to the Ellis Island immigration authorities on behalf of the stowaway found on the Queen Mary is to be made by Mr. Robert W. Bingham, above, American Ambassador in London, who is a passenger on the liner on her maiden voyage to New York.

REINFORCEMENTS HELD UP

"MEASURES DEVISED" BY MILITARISTS

VIGOROUS INVESTIGATION PUT INTO MOTION

Shanghai, Yesterday.

A message from Tientsin states that a railway bridge was bombed and destroyed last night at Chünliangcheng, between Tientsin and Tangku. The Japanese troop reinforcements going to Tientsin have been held up at Tangku and the train service is disrupted.

Later: The scene of the bombing is about four miles from Tientsin. The identity of the saboteurs is not known.

The damage was discovered by 40 Japanese soldiers making a survey trip by train at midnight. Two trainloads of Japanese troops arrived at Tientsin from Tangku earlier in the day, but a third trainload has been detained at Tangku in consequence of the bombing.

Later: In consequence of the bombing the Chinese railway officials at Tangku and Tientsin are reported to have been placed under surveillance by the Japanese military authorities, who have launched a vigorous investigation of the outrage.

Later: Another message from Tientsin says that the Japanese troop train was actually passing over the bridge when the explosion occurred, wrecking a freight-car containing horses, several of which were injured. The remainder of the train was able to proceed to Tientsin.

The investigations show that the explosives were wired so as to go off automatically, as the train passed. There were no human casualties.

JAPANESE WARNING

Tientsin, later: An official statement issued by the Japanese authorities refers to the recent demonstrations by Chinese students and expresses the suspicion that the outrage was committed by "a certain group." It adds that any act creating disturbances will destroy the Sino-Japanese friendship, in connection with which the Japanese military authorities are carefully devising measures in the performance of their duty.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

A message received on Friday said that while Japanese troops continued to pour into North China, the Chinese authorities were taking the utmost precautions to prevent fresh anti-Japanese demonstrations by the populace.

The police were guarding universities and schools and the students were kept in and no meetings were allowed.

Four Japanese transports arrived at Tangku yesterday, and the men entrained during the afternoon for Tientsin, Peiping and Shanhaikuan.

Whit Monday At Home

London, Yesterday.—Statistics calculate that 630,000 wheels, representing 43,000 coaches and 14,800 locomotives, will be revolving on the British railways throughout Whit Monday. Already a dense herd of excursionists is circulating throughout the country, seeking rest and recreation. Motor-cars on the main roads from London exceed 3,000 an hour, and cyclists are as sand on the seashore.

The air services to the Isle of Man, the Channel Islands and the Continent are being troubled, the Responding perfectly to the wheel, the R.M.S. Queen Mary, Britain's main contender in the race for commercial sea honours, makes a right-angled turn under full power while undergoing speed trials off the Isle of Arran. The Queen Mary is due to complete her maiden trip across the Atlantic early to-morrow morning.

American Reception For 'Queen Mary' Stowaway Escapade As Turning Point In Navy's Life

London, Yesterday.

The inevitable stowaway was discovered aboard the liner Queen Mary in the engineer's quarters, with his sleeves rolled up and looking like an engineer, though half-starved. He is a Londoner and unemployed labourer named Frank Gardiner.

His escapade may be the turning point in his life. The passengers freely contributed monetary assistance for him and Mr. Robert W. Bingham, the American Ambassador in London, who is aboard, promised to use his influence with the Ellis Island authorities to prevent Gardiner's immediate deportation. The Americans expect him to become a celebrity on his arrival.

Gardiner says that his stowaway was totally unpremeditated. He was working as a navy at Southampton and suddenly joined the ship's firemen, going aboard without even donning his coat.—Reuters.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED?

New York: The French liner Normandie appears to have taken up the Queen Mary's challenge. The owners are reported to intend cutting the time of future crossings to Europe by 10 hours. The liner will leave New York 10 hours later than the scheduled time for sailing, but will arrive in France on schedule.

EMPHATIC DENIAL

Paris: It is emphatically denied that it is intended that the Normandie shall accelerate her schedule by 10 hours.—Reuters' Bulletin Service.

NO SPECIAL EFFORT

London: Great interest continues in the progress of the liner Queen Mary on her maiden voyage to New York, and the news—Reuters.

SPARK TO NEW TRAIN OF EVENTS?

GRAVE REPERCUSSIONS FEARED

POSSIBLE PRETEXT FOR DIRECT ACTION BY JAPANESE

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The whole of China is stirred by the Tientsin bomb outrage, which it is feared may prove to be the spark to a train of events similar to those preceding the separation of Manchuria. Very grave repercussions are feared in Chinese political circles at Nanking, which are highly suspicious of the authorship of the incident and believe that the Japanese militarists are ready to seize it as a pretext for direct action in North China.

Tientsin: Reports of the explosion conflict in important respects. So far, no confirmation has been received from Chinese sources of the Japanese report that a troop train was actually damaged. It is stated that the damage was detected by a patrolman, who held up the midnight express on its way to Mukden.

A Japanese military squad stationed at the East Station, Tientsin, refused to permit a breakdown gang to proceed immediately for repairs and rushed a machine-gun detachment to the spot, where the track was examined and flashlight pictures taken. The last train crossing the spot was a Japanese military special, with 50 Japanese soldiers in it. The track was later repaired, and the Mukden train left this morning at 6 a.m.

Later: It transpires that the explosion occurred near a bridge and damaged a freight wagon containing cavalry horses, three of which were injured. A Japanese statement expresses the opinion that the outrage was committed by a group of students.

The Japanese evidently feared sabotage, as another troop-train scheduled to leave for Tungchow from Tangku at 11 p.m. last night postponed its departure and left for Tungchow this morning. Grave loss of life might have occurred if the Mukden express had not halted, as it was crowded and would inevitably have been derailed.

LONDON PRESS COMMENT

STATE OF TENSION RECALLED

SERIOUS POSSIBILITIES

London, Yesterday.

"Crisis in North China" and "New Japanese Swoop in North China Feared" are typical banner headlines in the evening papers in connection with the Tientsin railway incident, which is providing sensational news for Whitsuntide holiday-makers. There is no comment, but the papers supplement the cables with footnotes recalling the Mukden incident and emphasizing the acuteness of the Sino-Japanese tension in North China, especially in view of the recent increase in Japanese troops, all of which have attracted wide attention.

Chinese circles emphasize the danger that the Japanese militarists will use the incident as a pretext for pressing new demands on Nanking, the consequences of which, in the present explosive state of Chinese intellectuals and students, may well be very serious.—Reuters.

MURDER IN PEIPING

JAPANESE PROTEST

BRITISH SOLDIER INVOLVED?

SERIES OF ASSAULTS IN CABARETS AND BARS

Peiping, Yesterday.

The murder of the Japanese subject Kikaku Sasaki has had a sequel in a demand being presented by the Japanese authorities to the British Embassy for a prompt investigation of the crime, which they allege was committed by a British soldier. Sasaki, who was wearing uniform at the time of the murder, is described as an employee of the Manchukuo Department of Defence.

The demand was communicated verbally by an official of the Japanese Embassy, who reserved the right to make further representations.

The Japanese Embassy issued a statement, alleging that Sasaki was killed in a fight with a group of British soldiers, who on the night of May 26 had been concerned in a series of assaults on Japanese subjects in bars and cabarets, resulting in injuries to four men and one woman. Death was due to cerebral haemorrhage.—Reuters.

A message received yesterday said that the Chinese authorities were greatly concerned at the possibility of political repercussions from the murder of a Japanese army officer, who was found fatally injured at midnight on May 26, outside a cabaret.

However, it was understood that the circumstances pointed to a private vendetta. The nature of the injuries had not been revealed.

MONARCH CONSULTS A COMMUNIST

UNPRECEDENTED ACTION BY KING LEOPOLD

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Brussels, Yesterday.

For the first time in European history a reigning monarch has received a Communist to discuss a Government crisis, King Leopold of the Belgians having received in audience yesterday the Secretary-General of the Communist Party, M. M. Motte declared that the acceptance of the King's invitation had not changed the fact that the Communist Party was irreconcilably opposed to the institution of the monarchy. Nevertheless he had used the opportunity to inform the King of the state of feeling among labourers, the middle classes and peasants.

M. Motte went on to say that at the elections the policy of the Premier, M. Van Zeeland, had been rejected by the nation, and it would be challenging the nation to attempt to proceed with it further. In spite of this warning political circles here assert that the King, who is continuing his conferences with the party leaders over Whitsuntide, intends to entrust M. Van Zeeland on Tuesday next with the task of forming a new Government.—Trans-Ocean Service.

WELCOME GIFT

Mr. J. E. Joseph's
Benefaction

AGRICULTURAL ASSN.'S
HEADQUARTERS

By the generous gift of Mr. J. E. Joseph, who is well-known for his many contributions to various charitable institutions, the New Territories Agricultural Association is now promised a suitable building for its offices, educational efforts and other activities, experimental and practical.

Mr. Joseph has been greatly interested in agricultural progress for many years, and finding the Association in need of a suitable headquarters, himself very kindly offered to present a building, and purchased a site for its erection.

Welcome Encouragement

This munificent gift will help forward the work of the Association very greatly, and it is a welcome encouragement to those who have patiently persevered in the work of trying to promote co-operation amongst the peasant farmers and to better their lot in life.

This building has been well designed and will be an outstanding feature of the landscape on the New Territory Road, where it passes the Fanling Railway Station. It will be a monument to prove the generosity of one of the public benefactors in this Colony.

The work will be begun as soon as the plans are passed by the Government.

HE RODE A WHITE HORSE

By MARGARET G. ALDRED

RICHARDS came from South Africa and beyond the fact that he had once been manager of a mine we knew little of his former life; he seemed to have no friends and no relatives, but we of the village never bothered about our neighbours, and as he settled down comfortably and led a normal life he was left to himself.

He bought a small cottage on the outskirts of the village, and a couple of horses—not much to look at but safe, for he was no rider. I taught him to ride myself, and a hard job it was, too, for he was a confounded fidget, and had no horse sense at all.

During the time he was learning I got to know him quite well. That is, as well as he would ever let anybody know him, for he kept a good bit to himself.

He was a big, broad, burly man, with a mop of black curly hair and a little toothbrush moustache of which, I fancy, he was secretly proud, for he was always caressing it.

Some months after our acquaintance had begun I was asked to his house for a "bite and a yarn" as he put it, and, being curious, I went, wondering what sort of a place he had and how he managed with his meals.

I was surprised when I got to his house, for it was tastefully furnished and well kept, although he did all the work himself.

We had an excellent simple supper. My host was most attentive and in good spirits, remarking how much he enjoyed living in England, and that he intended making a garden in the spring.

About six months after my first visit to him it seemed to me that a change began to come over Richards. He took to wearing a rather worried, furtive look, often he would glance behind him over his shoulder as if expecting to see someone, while the slightest unexpected sound was enough to put him in a rage. But it was not until I was out riding with him on the Downs one day that I noticed how strong a hold Richards' nerves were getting over him.

He had trotted ahead of me, and when I caught him up he was sitting motionless on his horse, staring down the Roman road. His hands were rigid, his eyes glazed with staring, but what to me was stranger was the fact that his horse was sweating and looked for all the world as if it were going to bolt, so much so that I put out my hand and held his bridle ready for any emergency; then I too, looked down the road, expecting to see—what I don't know—but in any case there was nothing there to see—just the strip of what had once been a road, winding its way on across the Downs, and the trees peaceful in the quiet evening.

At last, rousing myself, I spoke sharply:

"I say, Richards."

His fingers relaxed and his eyes grew normal.

"What's up, man?" I went on.

"Is there anything wrong? What were you staring at?"

"No, of course not. Why should there be something wrong?" he almost growled at me.

"I thought you were looking at something . . . something a bit odd," I answered, feeling a fool before his now calm eyes.

Richards turned his horse and, without a further word, rode home. The dusk was beginning to fall, and I hurried after him, urging him to push on. As I left the Roman road behind me I thought I heard a faint "chink chink," the rattle perhaps of metal against iron, but I thought no more about it, having as much as I could manage to avoid holes in the ground and over-hanging branches.

For a few days I saw nothing of Richards, and it must have been a full week later when he came into the stables and said he wanted to hire a horse. I saddled him one, and was just going to lead it out when he suddenly asked:

"Will you come out with me?"

I was very busy just then, what with the accounts to make up and various other things to do, but he looked so upset and worried I said I would, cursing myself and Richards as I did so. I went back and got old Tony ready and together we rode up on to the Downs. The slightest sound startled the poor beggar, and when a pheasant flew out of the long grass he all but screamed, until I could stand it no longer and, thoroughly irritated, I burst out:

"What the devil's the matter with you, Richards?"

"Nothing," he said abruptly, and his eyes looked cunningly about and over the Downs.

"I suppose," he went on, "you don't hear anything—or see any—body?"

He looked hard at me.

"See anything? Don't be a fool, of course not. Besides what on earth should I see?" I retorted.

He laughed harshly.

"You say, what should you see?" I cut him short quickly.

"Damn it all, man, we're all alone. You can see that for yourself. You're so cursed nervy, you're fidgeting Jim, and for God's sake don't pull on his mouth like that."

I hardly knew what to say, I was feeling so annoyed by all his jumps and starts, and then this silly sort of talk. Frankly I'd no time for him.

"Let's go back," he said hastily.

"How about supper with me tonight? About eight-thirty suit you?"

I agreed, more because I was sorry for him, and I thought if he had any trouble he would tell me about it, thus relieving himself and giving me a little peace.

At eight-thirty I went round to his house, and over coffee he told me his tale, shamefacedly at first, but later more convincingly.

"I must tell someone," he shouted, "or I shall go mad, if I'm not that already; you shall judge for yourself and draw your own conclusions. Anyway, it all started on the Downs, by the gap at first, a good three miles from the Roman road."

"I was alone at the time and feeling very fit, remember that, no nerves, and I was fondly imagining that for once I could ride. I felt as secure as a tree on a hillside."

Well, as I was saying, I was feeling grand and enjoying myself no end and thinking what a lucky devil I was, when I suddenly happened to turn round and as I did so I caught sight of a large white horse, with a long mane and tail, galloping about by itself.

"At first, of course, I thought it was just a horse got loose from some farm, so I cantered towards it, though what I should do when I got up to it I hadn't the vaguest idea. But when I had ridden up the hill and got on to level ground the beast had vanished! I didn't think much about it, supposing it had trotted off among the trees, but the very next day I saw it again, and a good bit nearer, too."

"I was now puzzled but not frightened; I only wanted to clear the mystery up, and find out who owned this great white horse, so I made enquiries in the village. Down there, however, nobody knew anything about it, and I let the matter drop."

"It must have been nearly a fortnight afterwards that I was walking along the road when I thought I heard sounds of tramping feet coming from over the hill, and then some sort of chinking noises, and once I thought I saw the flutter of a flag or standard, and all the while I was catching glimpses of that cursed white horse among the trees."

"As I looked at the great beast I felt a strange exultation beginning to come over me, as if I must run and run, until I was with the horse."

"Then once more it vanished, leaving me feeling very flat and tired."

He paused, and I could see that he was sweating.

"Have a whisky?" he said. "I'll go on in a minute."

I helped myself to a whisky, lit a cigar and sat back for the rest of his yarn. He began again without warning.

"You know that night you found me staring down the road? Well, I was listening to the sounds of chinking and marching feet, and do you know who led me to that spot?"

He breathed hard.

"The white horse. I tell you it led me to the road. I had to go there. It went on ahead and I just followed after. I had been standing there a few minutes, gazing, I suppose, into the evening, when a strange thing happened. I saw, slowly, as in a haze at first, a troop of men marching. They came on faster and nearer as though they would march over me and the horse was leading them, saddled, and all ready for a rider. The men were dressed in a kind of armour—you know the stuff I mean—and as they got nearer I could see that they were Romans. The whole company was coming across the Downs from Chichester."

"I can tell you it gave me a hell of a fright at first until I felt that strange exultation coming over me again."

"As they got close up to me the horse slowed from a trot into a walk, and then a man caught hold of the reins and vaulted lightly into the saddle. They were very near me now, and the whole scene seemed as natural and real as anything I've ever seen." He paused and said slowly, "I believe you saved me then."

"Rot," I said, not knowing whether to believe his tale or not. "Good Lord, what did I do to save you?" Then I added, "You should go away with the bottle," and I laughed—or made a sort of sound like laughing.

"You can laugh all you damn well like," he replied, "but you did save me, for the man who got on to the horse was—me!"

"What?" I cried startled.

"Yes, me," he repeated. "And that's a bit odd, too, you know, considering I can hardly ride at all. Yet here was I dressed as a Roman, on a big white horse that was prancing all over the road. And I sat in it, I can tell you. I rode that horse all right." He laughed, excitedly.

"But it's absurd," I said quickly.

"Of course it's absurd," he retorted. "But it happened."

"But, good God, what does it mean?" I persisted.

"That's exactly what I mean to find out," he replied, "and I need your help to do it."

"What can I do?" he repeated.

"To be honest, I'm in a rotten funk, but I'm a great deal more curious than frightened."

"O.K., Richards," I said. "I'll do what you like. After all, it was just your imagination, and I don't believe in ghosts, and if they are ghosts they can't possibly hurt us."

"No," he said. "I suppose they can't."

Richards looked thoughtful.

The upshot of it was I agreed to go with him at dusk the following day on to the Downs—not that I believed we should see anything, because I didn't, for I've ridden for years all over the Downs and never seen or heard anything, nor met or heard of anybody else who had.

The following morning Richards came round; he wanted to ride Jim for the "jaunt" as he expressed it.

"My horses won't go near the spot," he explained apologetically. "They get so scared, they darn well scare me. By the way," he added, as if it were an afterthought, "bring a revolver. I know you've got one somewhere."

"What on earth for?" I asked, for this seemed to me to be going too far altogether. We were going after ghosts, not rabbits, and I was sick of the whole business, for in broad daylight it seemed more ridiculous than ever, and my time was precious.

"Just in case," he answered. "At seven that night we set off from the stables. It seemed unwise riding in the dusk, and I felt an idiot with my revolver bumping in my pocket. The Downs were quite deserted, for the light was already fading. It had rained that morning and the ground was spongy underfoot, while the sun was slowly sinking in a red ball with the sky a brilliant pink."

"Red sky at night, shepherd's delight," was the ridiculous adage running through my head, as we went down the dip and through the gap, without a sign of ghosts or ghost-horses."

Suddenly Richards drew up so sharply that Jim half-reared, his ears flat back against his head.

"Listen," he said, and his voice was shrill and thin.

I listened carefully, feeling my skin begin to prick.

Thud. Thud. Thud.

I looked round quickly, but there was nothing there.

"Imagination," I said. "Let's chuck the whole game, there's a good chap; besides it's none too safe with the horses in this rotten light."

No answer.

"It's getting on your nerves," I added, "and on mine, too."

Thud. Thud.

Richards was cantering now, and I called after him to go slowly and be careful. We topped the rise together and then I gasped, half with fear and half astonishment, for there, coming up the hill, was a riderless white horse.

My horse shied violently and backed away from the road. I felt its trembling and tried to soothe it down and all the while I could hear a faint chink, chink, and the tramping of feet, but of the white horse there was now no sign. Then, suddenly, my sweating horse bolted and all my mind was given to trying to check it, until, catching its foot in a hole, it threw me into a patch of ferns and raced away—and as I struggled to my feet I saw coming down the road a legion of men.

Then sun's last rays were making their helmets blood-red, while at their head there moved a great white horse.

"I heard—a shrill cry—from Richards, and then his voice rang out in an unknown tongue."

CORRESPONDENCE

Stamp Collector's
Request

(To The Editor, "Sunday Herald")

Sir—As you will probably notice from the address below, I am in residence in a Sanitarium. I have lately received the doctors' permission to take up some light hobby. Formerly being interested in stamps I was quite anxious to resume activities. This will probably puzzle you so far as how it should concern you, but I will endeavour to enlighten you.

The Editor of the Toronto Evening Telegram, being a friend of mine, gave me a list of a few papers in different countries and suggested I write them and ask their assistance in procuring a few correspondents in different countries who would care to correspond with me and tell a little about their country, what they do, etc., and to exchange their country's stamps for Canadian ones.

FRED A. WHITE.

National Sanitarium, Gravenhurst, Ontario, Canada.

All around was now filled with the tramp of many feet; I saw Richards jump off his horse and run to the company of men.

He was an utterly changed man. He gathered up the reins and leapt on to that horse in a way he had never done on any horse before, and at the head of that legion he rode, managing his horse with ease. I crouched behind a bush and waited for them to approach.

"Richards," I called frantically, and then louder: "Richards!"

The company was nearer now; the ground vibrated with the tramping of feet, and at their head, dressed as a Roman, rode Richards.

I raised my revolver and, to end the whole stupid game, I fired. The bullets whined off over the Downs.

The company was passing me now—young men mostly, marching, marching. White faces in the moonlight. Swearing with fear, I ran; I tore blindly and heedlessly over the rough, uneven ground, stumbling and falling, anything to get away from that army of marching men; men who had died centuries ago; I looked back at last, ashamed of my fear, distrusting my own eyes.

The moon had risen and the company showed white. Even as I reached the gap I heard the silver notes of a bugle ring out loud and clear, seeming to echo over the whole of the South Downs and die away towards Chichester.

Of my horse, or Jim, there was no sign.

Tony came back to the stables the same evening, but Jim did not, and it was not until early next morning that he came into the yard, so frightened that it took several days before he could again be ridden.

But long before that I had set off with Tom, my ancient groom. We went up the Roman road. There in the middle of the track we found Richards lying dead. He was smiling and looked happy, while about his body were the marks of scores of sharp teeth and the prints of a big horse's hooves.

"Looks as if a blinking army had been here," Tom said, scratching his head. "Never knew Jim to throw anyone before," he murmured. "But then, that Mr. Richards, he never were no rider."

Problems Solved

Dear Helen —

Dear Helen,

I should be much obliged if you would tell me the English custom about when to wear long gloves and when the short ones.

I have heard people say that it is not polite to wear an overcoat in the house, and that, when one enters a house, one should take it off; but, in practice, many people wear overcoats even in houses.

Also, is it polite to shake hands with gloves on? Some people say that a lady should not pull off her glove to shake hands with people. Is it right for bridesmaids to wear short gloves?

CURIOUS.

Long gloves to above the elbow are correct with evening dress or with short-sleeved frocks, particularly of a garden-party variety. People are not so very particular these days, but, strictly speaking, long gloves should always be worn with short-sleeved frocks; or gloves with a gauntlet six or eight inches deep are quite suitable for less formal occasions. Bridesmaids should certainly wear long gloves (if they wear any) unless they are in long-sleeved frocks.

It is considered more polite to remove the right hand glove before shaking hands with your hosts.

Men should not wear their overcoats in the house, but women may please themselves. In cold weather it is perfectly permissible to keep one on; just undo it and loosen it, otherwise you might give the impression you found the house uncomfortable.

Dear Helen,

I have met a handsome young man with whom I fell desperately in love. I believe him to be everything a girl could desire. He made passionate love to me, and certainly seemed as if he really cared for me. But since then I mentioned his name to another girl, who turned out to be a former girl friend of his. She seems to regard him as a very great flirt, and told me the names of many other girls he had made love to in the same way as to me.

I realise now that this is quite possible, and so I ask your advice. Do you think I should question him as to whether he does really care for me, and take his word for it, or believe what this girl friend has told me about his character, and give him up, or should I just forget and let things go? I love him so very, very much.

J. S.

If I were you I should tell this man frankly what you have heard about him—without mentioning names. If he is angry that you don't believe in him, just point out that this other girl believed in him, and, presumably, regretted it. Say you are sorry to be doubting, but that if he really does love you he must have the patience to prove it. Just agree to be friends for the present and see how you get on.

I don't want to be discouraging, but he does sound as though he probably is a flirt. Beware of too great a facility in love-making! But remember, too, that even flirts reform some time.

Dear Helen,

A few days ago I spent an afternoon with a girl-friend, who is a school-girl and whom I love. We are both about 18 years old, but I am working. On that afternoon we went to a cinema; afterwards she said she wanted to buy some magazines, so we went together. She paid for them. Now I am very, very uneasy because it just occurred to me that I should have met the account for her purchase of the magazines, through courtesy, or for any other reasons in the way of good manners.

Will you please give your opinion if I've acted impolitely; then I shall try to find a way to explain to her so as to banish from her mind any bad impression she may have of me.

IMPRESSION.

I am very sorry the answer to your letter could not be fitted into last Sunday's issue. I hope my opinion is not too late to be of help.

There is no reason at all why you should have paid for her magazines. I don't think she ought to have expected you to, and I don't suppose she did. I should not give it another thought. Only it might be a nice gesture to send her round the next number of her favourite magazine.

BRANDED.—The only thing I can advise is a generous application of buttermilk daily. Or buy one of the many beauty creams on the market for the purpose.

I regret some other letters have had to be held over until next week.

little tricks.

WHEN linen supplies are put aside and not expected to be in use for some time, they should be freed from starch before being stored away.

MINT, parsley, and all herbs remain fresh much longer if placed in a basin covered with a saucer to make it airtight. The old-fashioned way of setting them in water is not at all practical, as they soon become decomposed and unfit for use.

WHEN stewing prunes, add an eggspoon of lemon juice to the stewing water. This greatly improves their flavour.

IF you are troubled by beetles or ants, sprinkle powdered box in their runs. They refuse to live with this chemical.

"QUEEN MARY" HAT NEWEST INSPIRATION

THIRST-QUENCHING COCKTAILS

AND now for the drinks. You would like a non-alcoholic cocktail? Here are two for your choice.

Tomato Juice Cocktail.—Shred a stick of celery, mix it with $\frac{3}{4}$ pint pulped tomato, a tablespoonful each of lemon juice and tarragon vinegar, two level teaspoonfuls sugar and a finely chopped onion and leave to stand for twenty minutes. Strain and chill before putting into the vacuum flask.

Three-fruit Cocktail.—Mix four tablespoonfuls each grapefruit juice and orange juice and two tablespoonfuls lemon juice with a pinch of salt, two good tablespoonfuls sugar and $\frac{3}{4}$ pint ice-cold water. Chill before putting into the flask.

Squashes and "ades" at once occur to the mind for picnic soft drinks. "Made at home" pineapple lemonade to be diluted either with soda or water would be out of the ordinary.

Boil and simmer for ten minutes a pint of water and half a pound of sugar, add the grated fruit from a small tin of pineapple with the syrup and the juice of three lemons. When cold, strain and bottle.

NOVELTY BAG FOR THE SMALL GIRL

starch will answer the purpose in a washing article.

After the pattern has been carefully cut out (special attention must be paid to this, as it will make all the difference to the finished article), buttonhole the two pieces together, leaving an opening across the back for a zipper fastener. Join the ear pieces together and gather slightly, sew into position at the top of the head and do the same with the tail.

Draw enough threads from a small piece of material to make a fringe. Cut them through the centre to form eyelashes, and sew a small bead underneath for the eye. The nose can be worked with a few stitches or a darker plain piece of braid to match the pattern of the bag. A finishing touch is added by a collar and strap made from plain muslin binding or braid, and the little terrier is quite ready to be taken for his first walk.

FASHIONS do not "just grow" like Topsy of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Each new trend, style or colour is the direct result of an important event or some definite influence. Before the liner Queen Mary sailed from England last week it already had a vanguard of fashion ideas preceding it. Designers had been planning and working for months on fashions inspired by the sailing, which can be "launched" along with the ship.

Already Suzy of Paris has started the trend in "Queen Mary" hats in honour of Her Majesty, the Dowager Queen. Her pill-boxes of chiffon, in black or deep violet, draped in bright ruby, are being worn even now by smart women.

The amazing thing about the new creation adapted from the famed and widely-discussed chap-eaux worn by Her Majesty, is that it is as youthfully charming on a gay young debutante as it is regal on her mother. The wide veil which sweeps out over the draped chiffon band around the crown is both saucy and intriguing.

This veil idea is assuming tremendous proportions. There is flattery and charming femininity about lacy veils, which few women can resist. Hats of all types, sailors, Homburgs, half-hats, even the large cartwheel models, find some necessity or excuse for adding a wisp of veiling or even covering the entire hat.

To-day is shown one of the charming "Queen Mary" turbans, made of layers of chiffon. The top of the crown is stretched smooth and around it is draped a scarding which gathers in soft loops at the back and cascades down over the hair. The veil starts inside the drape and circles the face.

THIS DIET PROVED EFFICIENT WEIGHT REDUCER

HERE is a diet which did a fine reducing job, with a 25 pound loss and none of the usual fagged, all-gone look and feeling. It sounds like a great deal of food, but it does the work. For breakfast: Oatmeal with sugar and cream, one thin slice of toasted rye bread, buttered thinly, and coffee without cream or sugar. For luncheon: A vegetable plate and a thin slice of rye bread again, with glass of milk. For dinner: A scant helping of meat, roast beef, one lamb chop, or steak; green vegetables (two, at least), one thin slice of pumpernickel bread (dark rye bread) and glass of milk. Cheese once a week if you like. Stewed fruits permitted for dessert, but no sugar used in the stewing. It's a diet formula recommended by a noted physician. Incidentally, it cleared up a bad acid condition.

Milk in reducing diets is recognised as imperative to maintain the body by repairing tissue and by providing calcium (lime) together with the necessary vitamins. On a restricted food allowance, as much as a quart of milk a day is offered to safeguard health and preserve the youthful characteristics of a good firm skin, fine teeth, and healthy-looking hair.

LIQUID powder makes an excellent make-up for shoulders and arms. If you suffer from spots, I suggest you use a flesh-tinted calamine lotion, which will look much the same, but will also help to disinfect the spots and prevent the infection spreading. Shake the bottle, pour a little into a saucer and apply with a small sponge. If the lotion seems too powdery, dilute with a little rosewater. As soon as your skin is dry, gently smooth in the powdery deposit with the fingertips. A light dusting of flesh-tinted bath powder gives extra softness to this make-up.

TWO GAMES POSTPONED

The First Division Lawn Bowls League game between Taikoo Docks Recreation Club and Civil Service Cricket Club, which was to have taken place yesterday on the former's green, was not played owing to the heavy rain, which fell in the earlier part of the day and which left the green in a very sodden state. The game at the Civil Service Cricket Club was also postponed for the same reason.

SET UP RECORDPOLICE OFFER PLUCKY FRONT TO CHAMPIONS

TWO possibles in successive weeks in the Lawn Bowls League! Last week A. Hyde Lay's K.C.C. four accomplished the feat in the premier League. Yesterday A. E. Carey's Police four (N. B. Fraser, T. R. Hunter and R. H. E. Marks) realised the dream of every rinks player by chalking up an eight on the 11th head to secure a 25-3 lead and an ultimate win of 21 shots over J. Rodger's Football Club "A" rink in the junior division.

Sixes were recorded by three successful rinks — F. X. Soares's, which won by 31 shots (a record for this season), J. Fraser's and A. M. Holland's.

Craigenower "A," premier champions, were given a fright by the Police, and it was only R. Basa's four that enabled them to keep their 100 per cent. record. R. F. Luz's quartette were led 16-11 at the 19th and then rallied to tie at 16-all with J. Shepherd's rink — L. Guy's K.B.G.C. rink also came up from behind to secure a tie with G. Mitchell's four.

Although all the favoured teams won, the K.C.C.'s 48-shot win over Craigenower in the junior division was very business-like and speaks volumes for their chances of succeeding in the K.B.G.C. — they are the only 100 per cent. team in this division.

C. G. Silva, last year's leading skip, suffered his first defeat when he went down to W. Gill by 19-18 after scoring a four on the last head.

Choose White Horse — A joy to the palate

Its taste is so distinctive, its aroma and bouquet so satisfying. Then it is always soft and smooth to the palate, always sets perfectly, always acts as a splendid bracer.

These virtues result from extraordinary care in selecting the choicest whiskies and from patience in ageing in wood and unusual skill in the blending and "marrying." Whisky such as White Horse—real old Scotch—can be made no other way. That is why you should always ask for it by name.

Interesting Local Baseball Games

VOLUNTEERS MEET EASTERN

CANADIANS SHOULD BE MUCH STRONGER BUT JAPANESE ARE FAVOURED

THROUGH the generosity and co-operation of the Naval authorities, the behind-the-scenes work of Mr. Kenneth Noble, acting Canadian Trade Commissioner, and the enterprising efforts of Messrs. Muir and Thompson, the President and Hon. Secretary respectively of the Hong Kong Baseball League, followers of baseball will now be able to witness League games in comfort from a stand, instead of having to brave a fierce mid-day summer sun as hitherto.

The question of why the games are played in the morning instead of in the afternoon, had been raised in certain quarters and it has been ascertained that the reason is that most of the players would like the afternoon off for swimming. The question of playing games on Saturday afternoons is also receiving the attention of the managers of the different Clubs, and, in view of the large number of games which have to be played off in the League, it seems inevitable that some fixtures will have to be played on Saturday afternoons.

In their efforts to popularise baseball, the League Committee are arranging exhibition games whenever possible, and advantage will be taken of the presence of any American warships in Hong Kong to arrange such games. The larger of the Japanese steamers generally possess a good baseball team while the Empresses are, in most cases, able to field a team, so that there should be no shortage of "outside" fixtures.

The first of these exhibition games has been arranged for to-morrow at 10 a.m., when the Rest of the Colony will be opposed to the Combined Chinese teams in the League.

New Ground's Initiation

The first of the League games to be played on the new ground at Causeway Bay is between the Japanese Young Men's Association and the Canadian Baseball Club to-day at 9.30 a.m.

The well-known perfect understanding among the Japanese infielders, coupled with their base-stealing abilities, makes them a very hard team to beat.

Mikuni will be pitching for them and, though he has plenty of variety in his deliveries, it must be recalled that both Muir and Divett have knocked home runs off him. Walker, Mueller and Goldstein are also good swatters so that the Canadians should be well represented in this department.

Japanese Are Sound

Yasuda, as catcher, and Takeda, last year's catcher and now at first base, are safe in their respective positions. Kawamura, Amasaki, a relief pitcher, and Maruyama complete the infield. The outfielders will consist of Nakamoto, Yajima and Yamasaki, who are all safe.

Though the Japanese are not considered an extra strong batting side, there are several good hitters in the team, among whom are Takeda, Yajima and Yasuda.

Alltree and Walker will pitch, with Pearce, formerly of the Americans, at first base. Muir has been transferred to second base, where his height should stand him in good stead. Goldstein, who has improved greatly, will hold short-stop, while Smedley will be in his usual position at third base.

Divett and Mueller have safe pairs of hands and, in view of this, they should be given a trial at infield, where it is almost certain they would do well.

Volunteers Unfortunate

The Volunteers are somewhat unfortunately placed for their opening game. D. Leonard, their star player, is a doubtful starter as he has been down with fever, while both Hussain and Costa are spending the week-end in Canton. The team chosen, however, is a fairly sound one.

The vacancies caused by this trio have necessitated the complete switching round of the team. Pereira and Bowen will do the pitching, with Wing Lee catching. De Sa will play at first and Beltrao at second base. Abbas will probably play at third although, in the event of D. Leonard not playing, he may be positioned at short

CRICKET XI INVITED TO MALAYA

Sir Julien Cahn To Keep Promise

NO COMMUNICATION MADE WITH COLONY

The Cricketer of May 16, states that Sir Julien Cahn is taking a team to Ceylon and Malaya next year.

In addition to the many well known players who turn out for Sir Julien's side, he has now persuaded R. J. Crisp, the South African fast bowler, and C. S. Dempster, the new Leicestershire captain, to play for his team.

No Word in Colony

"Sir Julien Cahn has not yet communicated with me and he promised he would if he intended bringing out a cricket side to Malaya," Mr. A. K. Mackenzie, Hon. Secretary of the Hong Kong Cricket Club, told the Sunday Herald on Friday morning.

Mr. Mackenzie stated that the possibilities of Sir Julien extending his tour to Hong Kong were remote as a financial guarantee would probably have to be made, as Sir Julien's side was bound to include several professionals who would have to be paid.

Furthermore, Hong Kong itself is in no position to offer the tourists any great opposition and, if any plans did materialise, Shanghai would obviously have to send several players to the Colony so as to form a strong enough team, and this, we presume, would in all probability interfere with the annual Interport game.

THOMSON V FERRIER AT ST. ANDREW'S CYRIL TOLLEY'S MISFORTUNE

The Hector Thomson-Jim Ferrier Final in the British Amateur Golf Championship, which is in the nature of an Australian-Scottish affair, is expected to be very thrilling, with the odds slightly in favour of the former. The match, which will be over 36 holes, will take place to-day.

A feature of yesterday's play was the performance of Alec Hill, whose putting was most spectacular. Cyril Tolley, the 1920 and 1929 holder, would have won had he not stymied himself at the 19th when he was 1 up.

St. Andrew's Yesterday

Ferrier beat Hill by one up in the semi-final, the scores for the first nine holes being:—
Hill: 4, 4, 5, 5, 4, 4, 3, 4=37.
Ferrier: 4, 4, 5, 5, 5, 4, 3, 4=38.
Ferrier generally outdrove his opponent, though there was nothing to choose between them in the short game. The Australian pulled his tee shot and was bunkered on the way to the fourth hole, where there was a hill of heather. Ferrier took three putts at the sixth and Hill finished the round 1 up.

SENSATIONAL DRIVE
Ferrier, however, squared the match at the tenth with a 5-yard putt and took the lead in sensational manner at the twelfth with a drive which finished a yard from the pin. Hill then scored a "birdie" three, but Ferrier got an "eagle" for a two. Hill squared the match at the 14th, laying his long approach dead, but he was short at the 17th, where the Australian was 1 up. Both players finished the eighteenth with an orthodox four, the scores for the second nine holes being:— Ferrier: 3, 4, 2, 4, 5, 4, 4, 4=34.
Hill: 4, 4, 5, 5, 4, 4, 3, 4=37.

QUARTER-FINAL RESULTS
The following were the quarter-final results:—
Cecil Ewing beat Martin, 2 and 1.
Hector Thomson beat Gordon Peters, 2 and 1.
Alec Hill beat Cyril Tolley at the 19th.
Jim Ferrier beat Morton Dykes, 8 and 2.

PICTURES FOR THE PRESS

Modern Cameras And Methods

No More Fiddling Under The Black Cloth

IT is not so long, in point of time, since the task of "taking a picture for the papers" was a tedious ritual. Its success or failure was a question of blending the patient immobility of the sitter with niceties of sunlight and shade—and adding the luck of the photographer under his black cloth.

All this has changed. Almost as quick as an echo, reports of happenings in the modern world are followed by action pictures. They have quickly come to be taken for granted, so that the interesting developments which make possible the intimate, high-speed photography of to-day have not come in for the general attention they deserve.

Plates and films are now made so sensitive in their reaction to light that the old worry of bad lighting is practically non-existent. Along with these have come modern lenses, powerful in that they admit much more light than the old models, but still retaining high critical definition.

Midget Cameras
Midget cameras—remarkable examples of the manufacturer's technique—are now an essential part of the equipment. This style of camera takes thirty-six pictures, each one inch by one and a half, on five feet of cine-film. Using a special fine-grain developer in the development of the film, an image is procured from these tiny cameras which will stand enlarging to the largest size required for newspaper work.

The size, weight and efficiency of these remarkable little instruments and the fact that they are inconspicuous, render them invaluable. The news-gatherer with his camera is often forced to go "where angels fear to tread." For instance a prominent politician making an announcement of public importance at a select luncheon gathering is an excellent news "shot," but the interruption of proceedings necessary for the old-style picture would be frowned upon, and would, indeed, displace the dramatic effect.

Here the midget camera, with its lens peeping over the menu card, records the incident as clear-

DR. IP RETURNS TO COLONY

Post-Graduate Study In Europe

After spending almost three years in post-graduate study in Europe, Dr. Ip Sau-chi, a graduate of the University of Hong Kong, returned to the Colony last week.

Among the prominent hospitals which Dr. Ip attended are the Combes Hospital of Dublin, the Princess of York Hospital, St. Vincent Hospital, the London Lock Hospital, the St. John's Hospital for Dermatology, the St. John's Clinic for Actino-therapy and Physical Medicine and the Metropolitan Hospital for General Medicine and Surgery.

Dr. Ip, who is only 28 years of age, intends to practise in the Colony.

Calcutta reported 225 cases of cholera in the week ended May 23 and Bangkok one. In the same period Calcutta had 77 cases of smallpox and Shanghai nine.

ly and as faithfully as its predecessor, a bulky stand camera on a tripod.

Long-distance Pictures

Everyone is familiar with the modern action-pictures of Test cricket. These pictures are taken from the grandstand at a range of 100 yards or more.

With the lenses used for this work, it is possible for the operator to look through his camera to recognise a player, whom he could not otherwise identify. The lens gives a bigger image than the human eye.

Infra-red photography, in conjunction with long-focus lenses, has been responsible for some wonderful achievements. The white cliffs of Dover, seen from the coast of France, and other once impossible pictures, are now matters of fact.

The emulsion of the infra-red rays, invisible to the eye, records unseen objects through the haze in the atmosphere miles away.

High-speed Cinematography

One of the latest acquisitions in press work is a high-speed camera, capable of taking 24 pictures a second, with exposures ranging down to 1-1000 of a second. It is possible to track a fast-moving object continuously from the time it begins action to its completion.

For instance, a diver springing from the springboard and somersaulting in a fancy dive has every movement recorded, from the time of leaving the board till he disappears in the water. To follow the movements in detail is, of course, impossible with the eye. A series of pictures shows every phase. To the athlete concerned, it may be of inestimable technical value. With the diver taking, say, two seconds to complete all the movements, the camera records 48 separate pictures.

At this rate of advance it is hard to foretell what photographic science of the future will bring forth. The pressure of events and of public interest spur it onwards with the progress of the world.

ST. JOHN BRIGADE FINE WORK IN NEW TERRITORIES ADDITIONAL FUNDS REQUIRED

"ALL the T. B. children in the Tung Wah Hospital are being sent over to our hospital in Cheung Chau for treatment, as they have a much better chance of being cured there," said Mr. Alfred Morris, director of the St. John Ambulance Brigade and Association, when interviewed by the Sunday Herald in connection with the work done by the Brigade in the New Territories.

Mr. Morris went on to say that this is the only attempt ever made in Hong Kong to segregate T. B. children, but although the matter is still in the experimental stages, the results achieved so far go to stress that a clinic of this nature is one of the most crying needs in the Colony at the present time.

There are one resident doctor and five qualified nurses in the Cheung Chau hospital at the present time, but voluntary nurses from the Brigade pay visits to this health centre to help with the work whenever occasion demands.

There is also one other section of the hospital that is doing very good work, and which, like the T. B. section, is kept busy with patients every day. We refer to the anti-opium department, and it would perhaps be no exaggeration to say that in this connection the hospital staff is kept even more busy, for as many as 50 cases are given auto-serum injections during the course of a day, patients coming in from all the neighbouring islands, some even from Aberdeen and Hong Kong. In three cases drug addicts have reported to the authorities concerned that they have been cured of their habits, while others state that their desire for the drug is satisfied with a reduced quantity after each treatment.

The New Territories

Although the activities of the Association are unlimited, the most practical and humane part of their work is the maintenance of their hospitals and clinics in the New Territories. During 1935 no less than 158,050 general cases, including 1,619 maternity cases, were attended to at the St. John centres by their doctors and nurses.

Many of the villages in the New Territories are remote from the beaten track, and nurses frequently have to "stay out" day and night in order that they may properly attend to the cases on hand. Very often "calls" are sent over from the border and the difficulties encountered sometimes are unbelievable. It must be stated, however, that the St. John nurses command the greatest respect, even from the poorest villager, and as an instance it may be interesting to recall that although a man and a boy were kidnapped in an armed robbery which took place immediately next to one of the Clinics, the nurse in the Clinic was in no way molested.

At Kam Tin

The Kam Tin Centre is situated in the midst of the most beautiful, oldest, and most superstitious district in the New Territories, and is well-known for its maternity and children's wards. In former years there was much difficulty in persuading mothers to bring in their sick children for treatment, but this prejudice has now been overcome and cases are brought in readily, the villagers having learned to place their trust in Western medicine. It is regrettable, however, that the practice of "curing" by "burning" with joss sticks or ginger still prevails, and this practice, apart from its cruelty, often results in septic conditions being set up.

Haw Par Hospital

Reverting to the Haw Par Hospital in Cheung Chau, this establishment has proved a boon to the junk population, who can now leave their sick children in the hands of the nurse and doctor with the feeling that they will be well cared for, and to the expectant mother the hospital is an even greater haven of care and attention.

One of the wards in the spacious Haw Par Hospital in Cheung Chau, where excellent work is being done by the St. John Ambulance Brigade and Association.

Built on the beach between two spurs of mountains, like an arm-chair, the hospital has good fung shui (good wind and water), a point on which the Chinese are very particular, and the flat roof, together with the long sunny verandahs, have made it an ideal place for convalescents. The children's ward, with a sunny verandah of its own and a collection of toys, is more like a nursery than a room in a hospital. A large number of children, specially sent over from the Tung Wah Hospital, suffering from tuberculosis of the hip or spine, have benefited greatly by the sea air, and have gained in weight. In particular, one little legless girl who also has only one hand, has survived, despite abdominal operations and amputations for Raynaud's Disease. The problem now is what is to be done for this unfortunate girl, as she is homeless.

Lack Of Funds

In spite of the magnificent work of the St. John nurses and doctors in the New Territories, where poverty and sickness are prevalent and rife, where calls are unceasing, this work will have to be curtailed unless more financial help is forthcoming. Already two clinics have been closed down, and although there are at present two doctors engaged constantly in this work, it is feared that the services of one of them will have to be dispensed with due to the lack of funds.

The maintenance of hospitals and clinics amounts to $80,000 annually and the Association depends entirely on public subscriptions and proceeds from various entertainments, the Flag Day and the Fanning Hunt Sweep, but these have considerably fallen off, owing to the severe financial depression. The Association carries on splendid and unselfish work and is deserving of every support the public can give to it.

VISITORS TO CANTON

Nanking Officials Return

PLANS FOR NATIONAL SALVATION

[From Our Own Correspondent] Canton, Yesterday.

Messrs. Yeh 'Tau-tsang, Chu Min-yi and Chu Chin-hua, Nanking representatives who came to Canton to pay their last respects to the late Mr. Hu Han-min, left here on Thursday afternoon en route to Nanking.

When he first reached Canton, Mr. Yeh said he came here without a political mission, but at the railway station, he admitted that he had discussed plans of national salvation with South-west leaders. Mr. Yeh is the secretary general of the standing committee of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee.

Mr. Ku Cheng, President of the Judicial Yuan, has gone on a visit to Sun Wui County, while Mr. Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan, is visiting Macau to see his mother. He is accompanied by General Hsu Haung-chi, Vice-President of the Control Yuan.

Both Mr. Sun and Mr. Hsu have some sort of mission here. It is said that Mr. Sun has been asked to remain in Canton longer, as being the son of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Mr. Sun Fo has some influence in the Kuomintang.

Both Cantonese, Sun and Hsu will come back to Canton before they return to Nanking. It is believed that Mr. Sun will take a parental interest in the South-west by serving in the capital.

Mr. Hoare was appointed Police Constable on January 9, 1914, and eight years later was promoted to Crown Sergeant. In 1926, he attained the rank of Sub-Inspector, and was promoted to Inspector on August 31, 1933. During the last five years he has been Divisional Inspector of the New Territories, North.

COLONY SWIMMING TEAM SELECTED

L. ROZA-PEREIRA NOT COMPETING

COLONY TRIALS DESCRIBED

(By "Crawl")

ALTHOUGH the cream of Hong Kong's talent will be on view to-morrow at the V.R.C. against the Philippines' World Olympic swimming team for the Berlin Games, the visitors will not be given very much opposition, unless perhaps in the 100 Yards Free Style and the 440 Yards Free Style, the Colony representatives for which will be Chan Chan-hing, of the C.B.C. and Wilfred Lawrence, the Colony, Interport and V.R.C. champion.

Time and elimination trials were held at the Victoria Recreation Club last Friday evening, competitors from the V.R.C., the Chinese Y.M.C.A., South China Athletic Association, the Chinese Bathing Club, Hong Kong University and the Mak Ngah Association participating, but, with the exception of Lawrence, Chan Chan-hing, who did not take part, being a certainty, and Lau Po-hei (Back-Stroke) who also did not take part, being another certainty, no swimmer of outstanding merit is likely to represent the Colony.

Lionel Roza-Pereira, who swam in the 440 Yards heat with Norman Lee (South China), won easily by about eight or 10 yards, but withdrew his name from the list of swimmers competing as he wishes to study the form of the touring Olympic team rather than swim against them.

In the 100 Yards Back-Stroke trial, Wilfred Lawrence (V.R.C.) kept up a steady pace with Yeung Lu-kwan (Chinese "Y") for the first three lengths and then romped home in the last 25 yards in 72 1-5 seconds, which is about 3 secs. outside Lau Po-hei's Colony and Interport mark. Yeung Lu-kwan was about three or four yards in the rear and was clocked at 74 1-5 secs. Kwok Hon-ming (Chinese "Y") was third in 75 4-5 secs.

The 440 Yards drew two entrants, Lionel Roza-Pereira, the former Colony and Interport champion, and Norman Lee, and the result was never in doubt. Although Roza-Pereira had a few minutes earlier swum over the same course on his own, he proved more than a match for Lee and finished with several seconds to spare. The winner's time was 5 mins. 53 3-5 secs. while Norman Lee was timed at 6 mins. 2 4-5 secs.

Very Close Race

The 100 Yards Free Style saw Norman Lee (S.C.A.A.), and H. L. Ozorio (H. K. University) hit the water together and race away over the first 50 yards in 31 seconds. They kept within striking distance all the way to the last turn, where both failed to take advantage of the wall, and losing ground. In the final spurt Lee just beat Ozorio by a touch to clock 61 2-5 secs., which is five seconds outside Lawrence's best time. Ozorio was clocked at 61 3-5 secs.

The 200 Yards Breast-Stroke event saw only two competitors start, Wong Lu-man, of the Mak Ngah Association, and the Interport reserve swimmer, keeping his shoulders ahead of Fong Cheung-lu, of the Chinese "Y", to clock the poor time of 2 mins. 51 secs., while the latter was timed at exactly 8 mins.

EUPEN-MALMEDY PROBLEMANOTHER VIEW OF SITUATION*"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Brussels, Yesterday. The first reports of the statements to the press of the leader of the new Rex movement, M. Degrelle, omitted certain important declarations on Eupen-Malmedy, which are now being made public by the semi-official news agency Belga.

M. Degrelle said that the Rex movement now had one German Deputy from Eupen-Malmedy in Parliament, who would make the first German speech and take the oath in German.

M. Degrelle said that one must preserve the ethnical character of Eupen-Malmedy and St. Vith, territories that had until 1919 always formed an integral part of the German Reich, but had to be

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bayot and family, who have been spending over two months here, left the Colony last Thursday by the m.v. Victoria to return to their native Manila. Mr. Bayot said that he had had a very enjoyable holiday here and that he is looking forward to coming again next summer.

APPEAL TO JAPAN TO CHECK DRUG TRAFFIC
ASKED TO REDOUBLE HER EFFORTS

Geneva, Yesterday.

The Opium Committee passed a resolution yesterday requesting Japan to "redouble her efforts and take such action as may be necessary to apply to all persons under Japanese jurisdiction, wherever they may be, who engage in illicit traffic or the manufacture of narcotic drugs penalties which are likely to act as an effective deterrent."

The Committee based its appeal on the fact that the situation in China represents "not only a serious menace to China but also to the world, and the seriousness of the situation in China is partly due to the fact that the maximum penalties which can be imposed under Japanese law on traffickers of Japanese nationality have proved totally inadequate to serve as a deterrent and prevent illicit traffic." — Reuter.

CADBURY BROS.

A lavishly illustrated booklet fully describing the activities of Cadbury Bros. Ltd., of Bourneville, has recently been issued by that firm. It gives a full description of the "Factory in a Garden" where Cadbury chocolates are manufactured, and deals with all the many and various interests gathered there, social, working and manufacturing. Every phase of the workers' lives is discussed and illustrated.

FRENCH POWER STRIKEMany Conflicting Reports*NEGOTIATIONS BREAK DOWN*"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Paris, Yesterday. The utterly conflicting reports about the development of the metal workers' strike make it very difficult to state any exact facts. For instance, there is no agreement whatever about the total number of men now idle, some estimates being lower, as low as 60,000, and others as high as 300,000. One fact is certain, however, and that is that at least eight more large factories have joined the strike, including the entire Citroen works in Paris, in addition to the Rosengard, Salmson and Fiat factories, as well as the power-works of Adsthem.

Negotiations that were to have taken place in the Ministry of Labour yesterday afternoon between the strikers and the employers were suddenly adjourned. The reason seems to be that on Thursday the men agreed to the employers' demands that work should be resumed and the factory premises vacated, so that negotiations might go on in a normal atmosphere; but yesterday the men announced that they had decided that they would not resume work except on new conditions.—Trans-Ocean Service.

LADIES' INTERPORT HOCKEY FUNDResults Of Two Competitions

The "Beer Competition" organised by the Central British Schoolgirls' hockey team in aid of Ladies' Interport hockey funds was won by ticket No. 997, while the "Watch Competition" in aid of the same funds was won by Miss N. Moy.

How Stands Italy?

THE newspaper reader may well be surprised that after the contents bills had been full of announcements about Italy and the Ethiopian war for months, there should suddenly be complete silence. The Italian journals are under a very strict censorship, correspondents have been turned out of Ethiopia, the League Council has adjourned till the 16th of June—one might suppose that the occupation of Addis Ababa had introduced a reign of peaceful progress, with the Lion of Judah lying down not exactly with, but inside, the Italian lamb. Miracles do not happen.

At the period of the campaign when we last summed up the position editorially Marshal Badoglio had diverted his march from the direct route towards the capital to clear his right flank of a large force, said to number 40,000, under the Emperor himself and containing all his best troops, which was massed, contrary to all the advice given by the military experts who cautioned him to keep to guerrilla tactics, near the southern end of Lake Tsana. Meeting for the first time the full force of modern artillery discipline broke, and the subordinate commanders tried to withdraw their men in some semblance of order. This only invited the attention of the aeroplanes with their gas bombs and machine guns, with the result that they made for their homes and there no doubt told such tales of these horrors that in a general panic even the inaccessible mountains and wild gorges were left untenanted, and what seemed to the onlooker the hardest part of the advance was accomplished as on parade. Military history scarcely contains any example of a battle fought with no reserves held back in case of defeat.

The plan was to enter the capital on the anniversary of the foundation of Rome, so that on that auspicious date might be conferred on the King of Italy what the Dictator calls "the new Imperium," thus linking the House of Savoy to the long line of rulers of the old pagan Empire and the less glorious succession of the Holy Roman Empire. But though all preparations had been made, the Marshal who was responsible for the safety of the army declined to take the risk of so rapid an advance without scouting parties. As a last resort the army were ordered to descend and proclaim the capture. After flying over the town and seeing that it was full of disorderly mobs they also declined to take the risk, and flew back to Asmara. Marshal Graziani, obliged by entering Dessaye, an open and undefended town, and this occupation was heralded magniloquently, but failed to strike the general imagination. Though 150 miles sounds a mere day's journey for motor transport, it was a week before the entry in force took place.

Meantime the Emperor Haile Selassie was experiencing the bitterness of defeat and failure. His own people had turned against him, his life was in danger, and there was no time to organise any resistance. The League Council followed its own precedents when confronted with difficult situations, and adjourned for a month. Seriously considered, that adjournment, after all the other delays, must be considered more ominous of defeat for the hope of effective action than the sudden change of the situation in Abyssinia. What the world wants is some reliable system of general protection that will enable the separate countries to spend less on armaments and to free themselves from the continuous fear of being taken at a disadvantage by a stronger invader. It is not possible that in any European quarrel the difficulties will be less, and no Government could derive any comfort from being told that its case would be carefully considered—a month later. The prospect is that at the next meeting the "bitter humiliation" will be completed by the raising of the sanctions, and Italy will have given another boost to war by having "gained more by a campaign than she could have gained by peace."

We are not at the end of this chapter of history, but at the beginning. Men who are behind the scenes tell us that at present the only question is the choice of the next objective. There is a possible selection from three—control of the Arab kingdom of the Yemen, opposite Eritrea; control of Albania, and with it of the Balkan Peninsula; and a protectorate of Austria. Nobody mentions the fourth alternative of peace.

MR. V. OSATANANDA

This is the ninety-fifth of the exclusive series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S. Konyo, the talented Hungarian artist.

OUR Personality this week is Mr. Vilas Osatananda, Trade Commissioner for Siam in Hong Kong and South China.

Mr. Osatananda was born in Bangkok on October 17, 1900, and received his early education at the Royal Pages' College, Bangkok. Intending for a career in the Government service, he was sent at the age of 18 to England, where he became a pupil at Ongar School, Essex, remaining there for one year. Passing his London Matriculation examination about a year later, he entered the City and Guilds Engineering College where he took a three-year course in Agricultural Machinery and Engineering. On completion of the course he was transferred to the Seale-Hayne Agricultural College, Devonshire, where he remained four years, passing all his examinations in every branch and qualifying as an agricultural expert. He then spent about a year in an exhaustive tour of the various countries of Europe, studying agricultural methods and machinery.

Returns To Siam

Returning to Siam in 1927, after an absence of nine years, he joined the Agricultural Department and was appointed manager of the Government Experimental Farm in the Rangsit District, one of the largest in Siam, remaining in charge till the beginning of 1932, when he was transferred to the Co-operative Department of the Ministry of Commerce. Here he remained till the end of the year, when the change of Government occurred, and he sat as an elected member of the Peoples' Party in the Assembly.

In 1933 he was appointed to the Ministry of Education, political side, and in the following year he returned to the Department of Commerce. In 1935 he was promoted to the post. He at present holds that of Trade Commissioner for Siam.

During his college days Mr. Osatananda was a keen athlete, as a sprinter, footballer, fencer and tennis-player. While at Ongar he played 'soccer' for the school, but found no leisure for football at the City and Guilds Engineering College; he was, however, a member of the College fencing club. Taking up football again at the Seale-Hayne Agricultural College he played at inside right in the 1st "soccer" team and wing three-quarters in the 2nd Rugby fifteen; he also represented the College as a member of their 1st tennis team.

NANKING AND KWANGTUNG POLITICO-MILITARY CONFERENCE

JOINT ACTION PENDING?

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

After a series of important discussions with the Canton military leaders, General Pei Hsueh-shi, the "brains" of the Kwangsi army, left here this morning at 11 o'clock by a Stinson monoplane for Nanning, provincial capital of Kwangsi.

What is the nature of the politico-military conferences held here is not disclosed, but it is understood that General Pei is in favour of executing the will of the late Mr. Hu Han-min, which is against a dictatorship in China and calls for resistance against Japanese aggression as well as the suppression of Communism.

Mr. Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan, also left here this morning by special train for Hong Kong. Reports of his earlier departure were premature, as he was requested to remain here longer to discuss Canton-Nanking relations. Mr. Chen Wai-chow, elder brother of General Chen Chitang, accompanied Mr. Sun to Hong Kong and may go to Nanking with him, Chen is the Salt Commissioner in Kwangtung and acts as confidential adviser to his powerful brother.

The object of this Bill is to make an increase in the rates of Estate duty payable in the case of persons dying on or after July 1, 1936.

The estates of persons dying before that date are to be dealt with under the existing First and Second Schedules to the principal Ordinance.

To carry out this object, clause 2 of the Bill substitutes a new definition for "applicable Schedule" and clause 4 adds a new Third Schedule.

Clause 3 of the Bill will repeal the present Third Schedule, which provided a Table for use in the calculation of reversionary interests which is not required, as well as section 20 of the principal Ordinance which related to it.

The new Third Schedule sets out a new Table of duty. This ranges from 1 per cent. on estates between $500 and $5,000 to 20 per cent. on estates of over $20,000,000.

HOUSE OF COMMONS ADJOURNS

London, Yesterday.—The House of Commons adjourned yesterday afternoon for the Whit Sunday recess. It will meet again on June 9.—British Wireless Service.

PALESTINE RIOTING

STATEMENT IN COMMONS

PRESENT FORCES ADEQUATE

RUMOURS OF MORE TROOPS BEING SENT UNFOUNDED

London, Yesterday.—The Dominions Secretary, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, made a statement in the House of Commons yesterday on the situation in Palestine. He said that while some measure of disturbance was still reported in various parts of the country, he was glad to say that the general situation had shown a distinct improvement in the last two or three days.

Mr. MacDonald referred with regret to the shooting in the Old City of Jerusalem on Thursday of a British constable, and went on to state that the High Commissioner was satisfied that the forces at his disposal were at present adequate. The reports that another additional battalion had been sent to Palestine from Egypt were without foundation.

Alluding to the announcement in the press that tear-gas was being held in reserve by the Palestine police for use in certain contingencies in the suppression of civil disorder, he informed the House that the High Commissioner had published a statement for the information of the public in Palestine reassuring them as to the non-lethal and entirely harmless nature of the vapour to be employed, and explaining that its use had only been authorised should the occasion arise, in order to avoid as far as possible the necessity for employing measures for the preservation of law and order that might result in the loss of life or serious injury.—British Wireless Service.

LOCAL CANDIDATES' SUCCESSES

School Of Accountancy Graduates

News has just been received of the successful admission to the International Institute of Accountants, (Inc.) of two local candidates presented by the School of Accountancy and Commerce. This is the first time local examinees have been granted such recognition.

Mr. Thomas G. Young, one of the two Licentiate, won the President's Gold Medal for First Place in the Overseas Section in the December 1934 Intermediate examination. He won first place again in Bookkeeping Papers 1 and 2 in the Final in June 1935, and successfully passed the other Final papers in December 1935. Mr. Young is at present with the Wing On Bank Ltd., where he holds the position of Sub-Accountant and Secretary.

Mr. Tao Chak Chun, the other candidate, obtained First Place in the East and was awarded the Institute's Gold Medal for Intermediate Examinations in June 1935. He concluded his full Final examinations in December last year. Mr. Tao is connected with the film industry. He was Accountant of Hong Kong Amusements, Ltd. until the winding-up of that company. He is at present with Paramount Films.

CLERK'S ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT

Case Adjourned At Magistracy

Ng Fai Lam, aged 23 was yesterday charged before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Magistracy with the embezzlement of $50 from the Franklin Laboratory. The case was adjourned for 72 hours.

It was stated that the defendant was formerly employed at the Laboratory at a wage of $25 a month. A few months ago he was suspected of embezzlement of $40 and was dismissed. Recently on going through the books it was found that a certain firm had not paid their March account, but had paid their April account. Defendant was seen on Friday and admitted having received the money.

Mrs. Frances Eleanor Smith, above, 53-year-old wife of a Claremont, California, ranch manager, mother of four stalwart sons and two daughters and grandmother of three children, has been chosen by the Golden Rule Foundation Mother's Day committee as the typical American mother. Mrs. Smith was born in Virginia and moved to California when she was a girl.

DEFENCE CO-ORDINATION ARRANGEMENTS CONCLUDED WITH MOTOR FIRMS

London, Yesterday.—Replying to a debate raised on the Commons adjournment by Sir Edward Grigg who, supported by Sir Robert Horne, contended that the responsibility of the Government in relation to the manufacture and supply of defence requirements were so heavy and urgent as to warrant the appointment of an additional Minister, Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence, argued that the change of responsible direction would not affect the rate of progress in meeting the problems in question.

CIVIL SERVANTS' PENSIONS

Draft Amendment To Ordinance

POWER TO DISALLOW

The Government Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend further the law relating to pensions.

It is explained that Clause 2 of this Bill when enacted will repeal sub-section (2) of section 5 of the principal Ordinance, No. 21 of 1932, which provided that no officer would be granted a pension, gratuity or other allowance without a certificate from an appropriate superior officer to the effect that he had discharged the duties of his office with such diligence and fidelity as to justify the grant.

That provision which is to be found in the majority of Colonial Pension laws was derived from section 8 of the Superannuation Act, 1859; (22 Vict. c. 26), which was repealed recently by section 5 of the Superannuation Act, 1935 (25 and 26 Geo. 5, c. 23). A corresponding repeal in Colonial legislation has been requested by the Secretary of State in paragraph 7 of his circular despatch of the 4th January, 1936.

The effect of the repeal will be that the position will then be governed by the further provision, which is contained in section 5 (3) of the principal Ordinance, that where it is established to the satisfaction of the Governor in Council that an officer has been guilty of negligence, irregularity or misconduct, the pension, gratuity or other allowance may be reduced or altogether withheld.

Clause 3 will delete from section 9 of the principal Ordinance the reference to the approval of the Secretary of State, which deletion was suggested in paragraph 8 of the Circular despatch.

The Secretary of State wishes it to be understood that the practice of submitting such withholdings or reductions to him for approval shall be continued in the case of officers appointed by him or whose appointments are subject to his general or special approval, but that it will be unnecessary to continue it in the case of subordinate local officials who are appointed by the Colonial Government.

Defendant was seen on Friday and admitted having received the money.

BRITISH TROOPS STONED

POLICE COMPELLED TO USE LEWIS GUNS

NEWSPAPERS SUSPENDED

Jerusalem, Yesterday.

After two days' respite the wearing of steel-helmets has been resumed by the police and troops, following a number of further incidents. A bomb exploded on Thursday night in the District Commissioner's offices at Haifa, damaging the furniture and smashing the windows. Several arrests were made.

Several bombs exploded in and around Acre. A party of British constables had a narrow escape when patrolling in a car south of Jaffa. They were suddenly fired upon from a bush, but though two bullets passed through the car no one was hit.

A party of Royal Scots Fusiliers guarding a post near Jaffa was heavily stoned. They opened fire, wounding two of their assailants.

Sniping and bomb-throwing are also prevalent at Jaffa, where the military police were compelled to use Lewis-guns to quell the disorders. A large band fired upon a military railway patrol at Raselain from both sides of the line, but fled when the troops opened fire. An Arab was severely wounded at Haifa through the explosion of a bomb which it is believed he was carrying.

A number of Jewish and Arabic newspapers have been suspended for spreading allegedly false reports.—Reuter.

THE "PERSONS" IN THE TRINITY TERM DOES NOT MEAN "INDIVIDUALS"

WORD THAT HAS CAUSED MUCH CONFUSION

(By the Rev. J. N. LEWIS BRYAN)

If you were to ask the average Christian, "What is the Christian faith about God?" the chances are that he would reply that He is "three Persons in One." If you pressed for a little more enlightenment on that obviously very extraordinary statement, it is more than likely that he would answer that he did not quite understand it himself, never had done, and probably never would.

The average person does find this theological statement both perplexing and difficult, and am I alone to him. But the whole point is, that he does not realise that the word "person," as used in the Creeds, is a purely philosophical term which does not mean at all what we usually mean by the word. The result is that he falls into the mistake of thinking that God consists of three distinct individuals, viz., the Father, Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit, between whom he has to hold the balance.

The Holy Spirit
More particularly does he find it hard to place God the Holy Spirit, and he is therefore on the verge of being a little bewildered when Whitsunday comes around. As we have reached that festival to-day, I am postponing the series of articles I had just commenced on the teachings of Christ, in order to try to make a little more clear the meanings of Whitsunday and of Trinity, which comes next week.

It might help us, in face of the intellectual difficulties to which our Faith gives rise, if we abandon any attempt to wrestle with doctrine. It can well be left to those who have an aptitude for intellectual enquiry. Let us go back to the simple attitude of mind which characterised the first disciples and be content to think of God the Holy Spirit in the same way that they seemed to have thought of Him.

One thing is perfectly clear, they knew nothing consciously of any formulated doctrine of the Holy Spirit; much less of those great Creeds which lay, as yet, in that distant future when force of circumstances would compel the Church to define, in precise and clear-out language, the spiritual faith which she had cherished hitherto, unformulated, in her soul. All that was to come later.

Early Faith
But in the days of which the New Testament tells us it is doubtful whether any definite distinction between Father, Son, and Holy Spirit was consciously present in Christian minds at all. Their faith in God was a matter of spiritual experience rather than of intellectual reasoning.

There is one passage in the Acts which makes this clear. Within the compass of four verses we are told that Paul and Silas were forbidden by the Holy Ghost to preach in Asia; that the Spirit of Jesus suffered them not to go into Bithynia, and that God was calling them to Macedonia.

All three Persons of the Trinity are here spoken of with complete naturalness as being involved in the giving of this guidance, but it was the actual experience about which they were so certain, and no very clear distinctions in the source of it seems to have existed in the minds of these men, for whom Holy Ghost, Jesus, and God were apparently interchangeable terms.

Nevertheless, if we are to try to express as nearly as possible what their belief about the Holy Spirit was, we should have little hesitation in saying that, to those early Christians, the Holy Spirit meant preeminently, "the Spirit of Jesus."

Fellowship
The outstanding fact of the New Testament is the very real and close presence and fellowship of Jesus the Lord, about Whom His disciples have made the great discovery that, so far from His Ascension having removed Him further from them, it had actually made Him closer and more real than ever.

He was unseen, it is true; but more and more are they conscious of being filled with, and guided by, His Holy Spirit, just as He had promised them that they should be. They were learning more and more to recognise the Holy Spirit as His Spirit. It was an experience that just accepted as a perfectly normal fact in their everyday lives, without

The PASSING HOUR

LAST week may be said to have been a "Muti-Tai Week". Our little Colony is accustomed to go on its placid way, "the world forgetting, by the world forgot," until sometimes one wonders whether there remains in Whitehall any dusty pigeonhole that contains any record of its existence. Then suddenly there is a recrudescence of quotations from The Times, some questions in the House of Commons, and we realise that we are due for a "shake-up" from the Olympian Authorities. At the moment we are actually under discussion in three lines of activity all at once.

THE AIRPORT

THE news that the "Dorado" is to be supplemented by a frequent and regular service, and that an agreement is being made with the Dutch Company for transferable tickets and other forms of co-operation is, of course, of equal interest in London and Hong Kong, for all correspondence is two-ended. It is comforting to know that the long delays meant caution and not oblivion, and that now that a satisfactory design has been evolved for the standard type of plane and air conditions tested, our airport will have a chance of becoming as well-known as our harbour. "Imperial Airways" is a notable organisation in many ways. It is a forerunner of many similar companies to deal with the new cosmopolitan conditions of trade and intercourse, first by proving the advantage of combination; second, by proving that it is quite possible to get the advantage of Government assistance without monopoly; and third, by proving that in order to meet modern requirements it is not necessary to instal any rigorous system of direct management under either the label of Fascism or Communism. None of the four companies that were merged into one was paying its way, or had any chance of doing so, and, of course, public money could not be devoted to helping companies that were competing with each other. Air transport should at least be national, if not international.

The same arguments that made it obviously good business for the four companies to unite apply to the Dutch and American air lines, at least so far as a working alliance is concerned. Why is it that with the example of the Postal Union before it, the League of Nations did not tackle the task of regulating common interests, such as transport and currency, with the purpose of gradually working itself into the network of daily commerce and so acquiring the prestige that would have enabled it to act as arbitrator in more controversial matters?

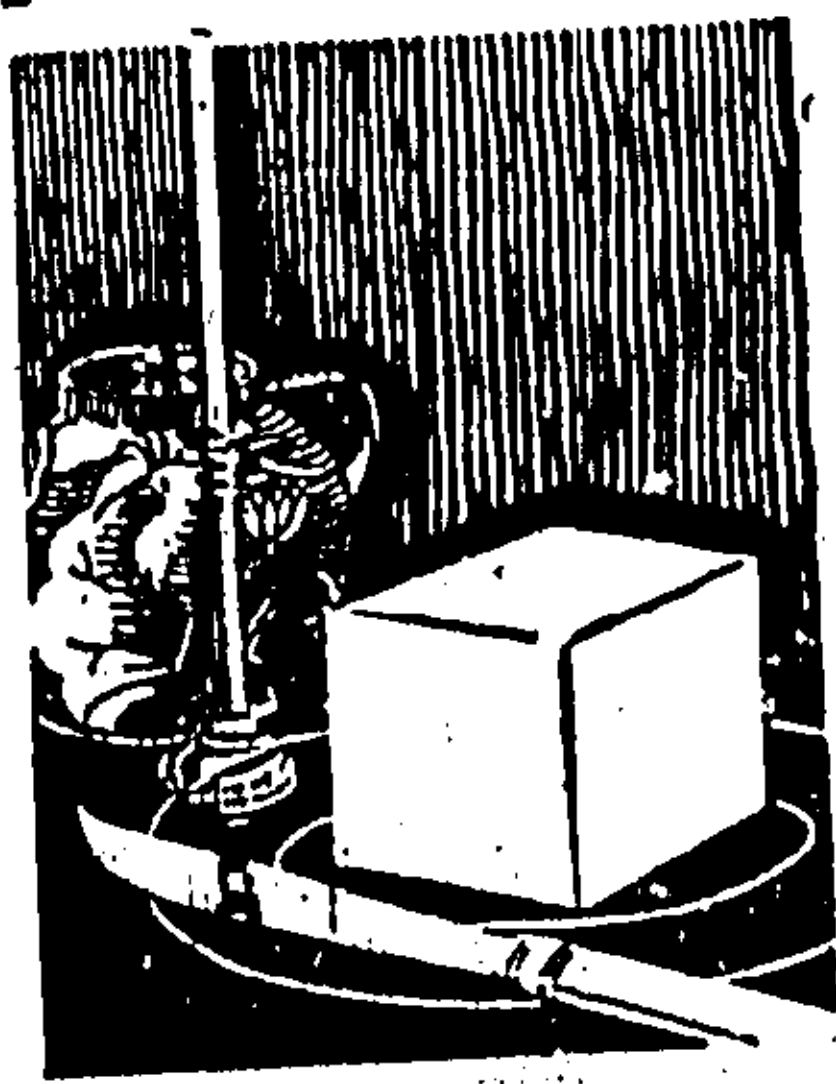

THE SALARY SCALES

WE are also in touch with the Colonial Office in the matter of the scales of pay, privileges and pension rights of our Civil Service, in which it is much more difficult to discover applicable principles. The public has no concern with the selection and promotion of individuals, but in the case of Civil Servants prohibition of private employment and profit creates a special responsibility to see that the rates of pay are fair and stable and sufficiently attractive to get the class of officers desired. There is no need to emphasise that the great attraction has been the stability, for no Government servant can expect to make a fortune or to make even a competence quickly. That tradition on which the Empire as we know it was built up has been even in England itself, though the last budget restored the cuts. The public does not realise that suspension of increments affects pension, rights, and the men affected will be paying for the rest of their lives for a temporary drop in the national revenue. There is no sense in having a top-heavy service without regard to what can be afforded out of the public purse, but surely the foundation principle should be that the terms on which a man joins up ought to be secured to him. The crux is therefore, the fixing of the scales, and the question is who is responsible. (Continued at foot of preceding column.)

RECREIO AND MACAU VISITORS IN SPORTS TIES

TO MEET IN TENNIS AND BADMINTON

Yesterday morning's rain failed to wash out the Mixed Doubles tennis encounter between the Club de Recreio and their Macau visitors, and, weather permitting, they will meet this afternoon at 3 p.m. in two Men's Doubles tennis matches run on H. K. League lines.

The Club de Recreio are fielding their "A" and "B" Division Lawn Tennis League teams against the visitors, while the latter have made several changes from their originally selected teams, although these will make little difference to the visitors' strength.

Following the tennis matches, the Macau visitors will meet a selected Recreio combination in nine sets of badminton, and the same team which lost to St. Andrew's last night by 7 matches to 2, will represent the visitors against the Recreio.

Not Best Team

The latter, due to the fact that the Macau players are not very strong, will not be fielding their very best players, but three well-balanced pairs have been selected.

The following are the team:—

DUTCH BANK RATE

One Per Cent. Rise Announced

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Amsterdam, Yesterday.

The Nederlandsche Bank yesterday announced a rise in the bankrate from 2½ per cent. to 3½ per cent., as from May 30. The last change in the bank rate took place on February 4, 1936, when it was lowered by ½ per cent. to 2½ per cent.

This measure came as a complete surprise and was last night explained by leading men in financial circles here as due to the indirect effects of the flight of capital from France, with a consequent swollen demand for pounds sterling and dollars, resulting in a pressure on the guilder.

In general the rise of the bank rate by a whole 1 per cent. is regarded merely as a precautionary measure by the Nederlandsche

Bank. The last bank return published showed a decrease in the gold stock of 14.20 million guild-ers, leaving 683.1 million guild-ers, so that there is no reason for uncertainty.—Trans-Ocean Service.

TREASURY BILLS ISSUE

London, yesterday.—The total amount applied for in tenders for $50,000,000 Treasury bills was

$67,935,000. The average rate per cent. for bills at three months was 11/5.54d., against 11/0.47d. a week ago.—British Wireless Service.

CAPITAL ISSUES IN BRITAIN

London, yesterday.—New capital issues in May amounted to $19,500,000, compared with $10,450,000 in April and $19,728,

000 in May, 1935. The total for the first five months of the year is $205,73,000, compared with $25,800,000 in the corresponding period of last year.—British Wireless Service.

Senior

PERSONALIA.

Mrs. Robert Ho Tung, Jr., who is a very keen horsewoman, is now in North China with her husband, Col. Robert Ho Tung.

SERGENT Blach of the Hong Kong Police Force, who is popularly known to his many friends as "Sandy," left the Colony on retirement yesterday. Sergt. Blach had been Court Sergeant at the Central Magistracy for well over ten years.

We understand that Mrs. Tweedie of "Basilica" will be going away in the very near future. She is proceeding to England for a holiday but it is not yet decided when she will be returning to Hong Kong.

Mrs. W. E. B. Dowling is one of the leading lady tennis players in the Colony, representing the United Services Recreation Club in the Mixed Doubles League.

MR. and Mrs. Edward Walker sailed for Japan on Friday. They will cover a lot of ground during Mr. Walker's two months' leave, as, after about ten days in Japan, they intend visiting Wei-hai-wei, Tsingtao and Peiping. They will probably stay in Peiping three weeks and return to the Colony via Shanghai. Mrs. Walker's home was at Shanghai before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon are another Army couple who will be off to Japan in the near future. They are sailing next Wednesday in the Chichibu Maru.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. E. Bishop gave a small but very successful bathing party at their matshed at Repulse Bay last Sunday, when the guests of honour were the Misses Naughton and Watson, two charming visitors from Australia.

Her many friends will be interested to learn that Miss Kathleen Simmons, who left the Colony for a holiday with her parents recently, will be back again towards the end of the year. She is travelling to England via America, where she hopes to spend a few weeks.

Brother Xavier, one of the senior masters of St. Joseph's College, and also their science master, left the Colony for Manila last Tuesday. He has been transferred to the Manila school after having been on the local staff since 1930.

Brother Claude, sub-director of St. Joseph's College, is another member of the College staff who will be leaving the Colony soon. It is understood that he will be going away on transfer, though the exact date of his departure has not yet been decided.

Mr. P. Morrison has now taken over charge of the Imports Department at Messrs. Jardine Matheson and Company Ltd. He was formerly No. 2 to Mr. D. L. Newbigging, who is now in the Private Office of the firm.

THE Officers' Mess of the East Lancashire Regiment gave a delightful cocktail party at Shamshulpo last Tuesday evening, the party being held on the Mess' hard tennis courts, where several small tables were scattered about, so that the guests could drink their cocktails and eat "small chow" without the usual continual standing and wishing they had three hands to manage everything! Little coloured electric lights lit up the scene, and the East Lancashire Band played appropriate music.

Mrs. Dowling was looking as pretty as usual in a frock of navy blue silk with a faint white pattern in it, and a becoming lace cascade flowing from the centre of the neckline. Mrs. Ingpen was wearing a flowered frock in soft shades, trimmed with several intriguing little standing-out tufts on the shoulders. She carried a cotee to match.

Mrs. Henry was in blue lace, with a girdle of twisted silken cords in blue and cream. Mrs. Austin also chose blue; hers was a saxe crepe evening frock, the little shoulder cape being lined with navy blue of the same material. Mrs. Ashton is another to whom blue is becoming. She had on an afternoon frock of blue with white dots, which always looks so cool and pretty, and a black straw hat, the fashionable twists of whose brim caught the eyes of many other ladies present.

Mrs. Hugginsberg, who is on a visit to Hong Kong, upheld the American woman's reputation for being smart in a black frock with big bishop sleeves in black and white criss-crosses, and a large, becoming black hat. Mrs. Kayll was wearing a cream organdie frock, overlaid with a faint tartan pattern in pastel shades. Miss Peggie Murrow also favoured a tartan effect, but her dress was in considerably darker shades.

Among others noticed were Mrs. Smyth in pink lace, Mrs. White in a green flowered frock, and Mrs. Burnie in grey.

Mr. B. C. de Jonge, of the Java-China-Java-Japan Lijn, N. V., will be leaving the Colony by the s.s. Tjisalak on July 14. He will first go to Batavia and then to Holland, either via the United States or, together with his family, via Suez. Mr. de Jonge's father, the Governor-General of the Netherlands East Indies, is due to retire some time in September.

Mr. L. L. Greenberg, of Messrs. N. Lazarus and Company, will be leaving the Colony for Shanghai in the near future. He will be taking up an appointment in the Shanghai branch of the firm.

COMDR. G. S. Arbuthnot, D.S.O., has just arrived in the Colony to take over the post of Commander H.M.S. Tamar from Comdr. T. A. Hussey. Comdr. Arbuthnot is accompanied by his wife and we wish them a very pleasant term of residence here.

Mr. Felix M. Ellis, a member of the firm of Messrs. Ellis and Edgar, sharebrokers, has returned to the Colony again after a business trip to Manila, where he spent about two weeks. While there Mr. Ellis flew over 700 miles in the course of an inspection tour of the gold mines which are scattered all over the Philippine Islands.

It is understood that Mr. Leo Weill, who is the head of the firm of sharebrokers bearing his name, will be going away for a short holiday in the near future. Mr. Weill states that he will probably visit Manila, where he will be combining business with pleasure.

Miss E. Ross, who is on the staff of the Hong Kong and China Gas Company Ltd., left the Colony recently for a holiday in England. She will be away for about six months.

MRS. G. Grimble, one of the best-known residents of the Colony, left for England last Tuesday. It is understood that she will not be returning here.

Capt. Gray, R.M., and Mrs. Gray, who have been in residence at "Basilica," Lyttelton Road, for some time, have left their flat for their summer residence on Stonecutters' Island.

Traffic-Inspector Nicolls is slightly indisposed, but his many friends will be glad to learn that his illness is not considered serious. It is understood, however, that he will be going away from the Colony, possibly on retirement, in the very near future.

Miss Dorothy Wong, daughter of Dr. B. C. Wong, photographed at her brother-in-law's bungalow at Castle Peak.

The wedding of Miss Gloria Mok, above, and Mr. H. C. Ph, the well-known jockey, will take place at the Registry next Tuesday and will be followed by a reception at the Hong Kong Hotel. (King's Studio).

One of the best known radio stars in Hong Kong is Miss Doreen Ma.

Mr. and Mrs. Leung Pak-chung gave a small party at their summer residence in Castle Peak last week-end, when some dozen friends were invited. Swimming and fishing proved to be very popular with the guests, whose combined efforts landed a big enough catch for a very enjoyable supper!

Mr. E. C. Fredericks, the well-known local bullion broker, plans to go on Home leave some time in August. Accompanied by Mrs. Fredericks, he will be travelling to England via America, and it is understood that they will visit Niagara Falls and other places of interests before going on to the Old Country.

Mr. Edgar Lewis, a familiar figure in local exchange circles, who has been spending his leave in Swansea for the past three or four months, is due to return to the Colony some time in July. In a letter to a friend here recently, Mr. Lewis said that he was having a thoroughly enjoyable holiday.

LITTLE NOTES of Great Importance

Hats have never been so exciting . . . In all my life I never remember such a variety of styles . . . colours and shapes . . . It is enough to confuse a person . . . But not DOLLY VARDEN'S . . . Their knack of knowing exactly what style suits your face and wardrobe is uncanny. The fact that they sell the famous Catalina California hats shows some judgment too. You must go to see their "Big Parade" of straws, straw-fabrics and linens, most of them with the fashionable posy. You will be dazzled by the variety of styles and colours . . . and you are not a woman if you will be able to make up your mind.

Your best friend . . . Maybe your mother, but from what I can observe the next best are certainly your beauty aids. I have always been completely sold on MIMI beauty preparations . . . not only because they are well recommended by famous film stars but I have my own experience too . . . There is, for instance, their famous Liquid Shampoo . . . I guarantee that, using it, you will never be troubled with dandruff. And you don't pay for fancy packings . . . no, just for what you are actually buying . . . reliable cosmetics. That is why the prices are the lowest on the market. From the Wing On Co., Ltd., Hariram Silk Store, Kowloon, and Miss Naylor's, St. George's Building.

The veil is lifted . . . our curiosity is satisfied . . . I saw MAIZEE'S new shipment. I know you would like to have the whole story all the latest dope (one must go American when one just peeps into the "American Shop") on the new styles . . . it would take a column at least — and look at this space! So you must positively go yourself. But here is at least something to start with . . . The most marvellous selection in cotton prints (two-pieces, cotton suits), all the newest designs and in all sizes for a mere $4.00, $18.00 or $26.00! Also eyelet embroideries, voiles in abundance and lovely linen hats.

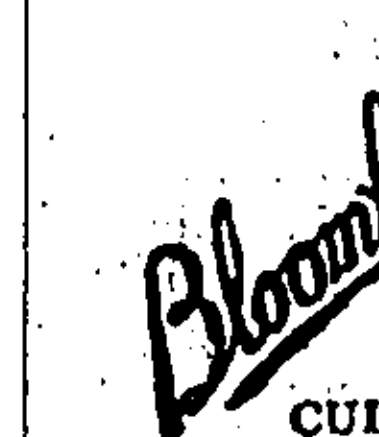

One of the many things MAYO'S SHOPPE is famous for is that they never need a sale. There are never out-of-season stocks to get rid of, no high prices to reduce under the disguise of a sale. Still, once in very year MAYO'S celebrate the anniversary of the opening of their shop with the only sale of the year . . . a sort of Thanksgiving day . . . and they give you more than thanks . . . 25% off of all hats . . . and you know those hats! You must not miss this opportunity. The event will take place from Tuesday, June 2, to Saturday, June 6.

One of life's most painful experiences maybe you think is toothache. But what will you think to-morrow after returning from Repulse Bay looking like a lobster? I bet it won't be difficult to make up your mind about sunburn . . . and it is all your own fault . . . next time use NOXZEMA. It is an excellent safeguard against sunburn and it has so many other uses that it is a real blessing in the home. It soothes burns and bruises, chafing and baby rash, burning and aching feet, etc. All leading Dispensaries sell it. Sole distributors: United Traders, Pedder Building.

Ladies . . . Attention! I have already supplied some interesting news in this column, but never such as this . . . It is the sensation of the year . . . PAUL RENNET'S are closing down their Kowloon shop to centralise their efforts at service . . . and there will be a startling sale from Tuesday, such as you have never seen before. Dresses and gowns from $6.50, Dunlop rubber rain coats for $5.00, shoes for street and indoor wear, skins and satins from $2.00, slippers from $1.00, leather sandals $2.50. Millinery for less than cost, bathing costumes from $4.50.

Your daily bath, or cleaning your teeth, is a matter of routine to you. Did you ever stop to think that your intestinal tract needs cleansing too? It is an established fact that 90% of the ills of humanity arise from intestinal putrefaction. The remedy is ACIDOFILAC—a pure milk food culture. It destroys harmful germs in the system and is especially active in changing and controlling the stomach and intestinal reactions. It gives prompt results in all symptoms of constipation, gastritis and colitis. On sale at The Pharmacy and the Colonial Dispensary.

Of course, you will want to look your best at the smartest function of the season . . . Government House Ball on June 23, His Majesty's birthday. It is only natural that for smart things you will go to Hong Kong's smartest shop—LANE, CRAWFORD'S. I am willing to make a bet that you will have no difficulty in picking out the gowns at the Ball which come from their shop. In fact I had my difficulty to pick my favourite from the bevy of beauties in lace, georgette and organdie . . . They simply dazzled me . . .

There are connoisseurs of pictures . . . good food . . . or of the right clothes . . . and simply connoisseurs of good living—people who know just how to eliminate unpleasant things from their lives. They know what and how to do it on every occasion. For instance, when they go to the beach they are never troubled with sunburn . . . no, Sir, they know that the GRAND DISPENSARY carries the largest stock in town of the most effective lotions and various other preparations. Of course, they provide themselves at the GRAND DISPENSARY.

MR PIH VIRTUAL CHAMPION JOCKEY FOR FIRST HALF OF SEASON

Causes Surprise On Soldier Of Britain

WEST PARADE RUNS UNPLACED

CYCLAMEN BAY ALMOST CAUSES SENSATION

PERFECT DAY SHOWS BRILLIANT FORM AFTER BAD START

KEEN racing under ideal conditions, and before a very fair crowd, featured the first day of the Sixth Extra Race Meeting at the Valley yesterday, when Mr. H. C. Pih, who is to be married next Tuesday, made almost certain of finishing the first half of the season to-morrow as champion jockey — he now has 16 wins, five more than Mr. D. Black, his nearest rival.

There were no really big dividends — the combination of Racing Heart and King's Sceptre paid $128.40 on the "Daily Double" — but there were one or two big form upsets, including the defeats of Royal Scot and West Parade. Dr. Reidy's Racing Heart (Mr. Harris) paid $50.60 for a win, while Mr. Dunbar's Mistake Bay (Mr. Black) paid $37, Soldier of Britain (Mr. Pih) $34.90 and Cyclamen Bay (Mr. Harriman) $32.70 for a place.

Mr. H. C. Pih again carried off the riding honours with two wins, a second and two thirds in eight starts, while Mr. S. Y. Liang rode two of the Lan Stable's three winners.

The last racing day of the first half of the season will commence to-morrow at 12.30 p.m., the time of the first race.

Though the weather looked distinctly threatening, heavy rain actually falling, at 11 a.m. yesterday, the afternoon turned out perfect, and there was quite a fair crowd present for the May Handicap, for which Honeymoon Eve and King's Warden did not accept.

Royal Scot, looking a perfect picture, was made a red hot favourite, but the crowd had overlooked the fact that the track was not as wet as it at first appeared and Mr. Li Shiu Pang's Soldier of Britain (Mr. Pih), after lying second last practically all the way round, came up with a rush on the rails to snatch a win by a short head from Royal Scot (Mr. Deltz), which only just held off Gladator (Mr. Ip). Oak Bay, after setting the pace, was last in this field of four runners. If Royal Scot had not lagged at the start it would probably have won.

Electron's Great Finish
Mr. J. E. D.'s Electron (Mr. Deltz) fulfilled expectations in the Warwick Farm Handicap when it won by 1½ lengths, but not until after receiving a rare fright from Derby Day (Mr. S. C. Liang), which got away to a flying start to secure a lead of some 15 lengths in the back straight. Electron, however, finished with a great burst to catch Dr. Chau's candidate less than 50 yards from the post. Bobnak Star (Mr. Proulx) just managed to get the better of Australian Boy, while the greatly fancied Double Finesse finished last.

RACING HEART AND KING'S SCEPTRE PAY $128.40 DIVIDEND

"Daily Double" Betting Statistics

The following were yesterday's "Daily Double" betting figures:
First Leg:
Centre Court (825), Goldsmith (73), Night Star (180), Perfect Day (19), Racing Heart (65), Rose-Ann (4) and Snowy River (204).
Second Leg:
Amberley (18), Donovan (0), Flybynight (1), King's Sceptre (20), Miracle (0), Rousseau (0), Royal Highness (3), Victoria Hall (0), What A Chance (0), and Ythan (2).

finished strongly after running wide in the home stretch. Rose-Queen was fourth.

Mr. Black did extraordinarily well to get Mistake Bay first past the post — apart from Mr. Frost, he has the most powerful finish of any of our local riders.

Easy For King's Sceptre
Mr. Dynasty's King's Sceptre (Mr. Proulx), though it by no means had a flying start, easily accounted for the Customs Handicap — Mr. Proulx seemed surprised that Mr. Black tried so hard on Ythan over the last 50 yards. Amberley (Mr. Pih), which was quietly tipped as a sure winner, was a poor third, while Royal Highness was fourth.

West Parade Disappoints

West Parade caused a big disappointment in the Shatin Handicap when, carrying 900 out of 2201 win tickets, it failed to finish in the first six after a very indifferent start.

Burgomaster (Mr. Davis), after setting the pace, was narrowly beaten out of first place by Hummer (Mr. Pih), which came up with a great rush over the last furlong. Valley View (Mr. Liang) was third and Blue Ribbon fourth.

Only One More Win!

Mr. W. H. Choy now requires only one more win to graduate from the Novice Class as the result of his success on Mr. Lan's Ocean View in the Stonecutters Plate. Beating Cassius (Mr. Harris) was no mean feat and he fully deserved the applause he received. Heriot (Mr. Poy), which was out of the gate like a bullet, was third and Merry Jester fourth.

ARGENTINA TAKES THE LEAD

DEMAND FOR LEAGUE ASSEMBLY MEETING

CALLS FOR ACTION AT GENEVA

Geneva, Yesterday.

Argentina has requested an extraordinary meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations in June to consider the sanctions problem and also the situation created by the annexation of Ethiopia, and the reform of the League. It is understood that the Argentinian Government sounded the other Latin-American States and is assured of their support in opposing the recognition of the Italian annexation.

London: The Ethiopian Legation states that the Negus, who is due in London on Wednesday, will be the guest of Sir Elly Kadoorie, whose house is situated in Prince's Gate, a few doors from the Legation, with which he will maintain close touch. Sir Elly Kadoorie is at present in Shanghai. — Reuter.

Gibraltar: The Negus landed from H.M.S. Capetown yesterday and was enthusiastically welcomed at the entrance to Government House by the Governor, with whom he had lunch. The Gordon Highlanders, on guard, presented arms. — Reuter's Bulletin Service.

SEQUEL TO RUMOURS

Geneva: The immediate resumption of the plenary session of the League of Nations, which was not concluded but only adjourned last autumn, has been demanded by the permanent representative of Argentina at the League of Nations, at an interview held with the Deputy Secretary-General yesterday afternoon. This step on the part of Argentina is understood to be due to rumours circulating here during the last few days, that England or France wishes to postpone the League Council session, which was arranged to take place in June.

NATIVE POLICE DISBANDED
Rome: The Abyssinian police force in Addis Ababa has now finally been dissolved by order of Marshal Graziani. The reason given for this action is that the behaviour of the police force during the recent plundering in the capital gave little cause for confidence. The whole policing of the town is now in the hands of Carabinieri. — Trans-Ocean Service.

EXPLANATION OF TO-DAY'S CARTOON

Armless Highwayman

IT doesn't seem possible that a man without arms could pull off much of a robbery, but Will Queen of Union, S.C. did just that. Queen's arms are both amputated at the elbows, yet he held up and robbed John Palmer, of his home town, of $136. He manipulated his weapons so cleverly that Mr. Palmer took no chances. However, Queen was arrested on April 25, 1935, stood trial and was convicted, serving eight months in gaol for his crime.

idence. The whole policing of the town is now in the hands of Carabinieri. — Trans-Ocean Service.

EXIT I. F. S. SENATE

London, yesterday.—The Governor-General of the Irish Free State, Mr. Donal Buckley, has signed the Bill abolishing the Irish Free State Senate, which has now ceased to exist. — Reuter's Bulletin Service.

CHURCH BUILDING FUND APPEAL

It has been decided to defer the building of the parish hall and priest's house for the time being, but building operations have already begun on the new church, to be known as Christ Church, Kowloon Tong, and it is expected that it will be opened for worship early in 1937. This church is designed on simple modern lines, with a square tower, and will be constructed in reinforced concrete; it will have seating accommodation for about 250 persons. The following is an estimate of the cost:—

Site formation for whole area, and piling for church only $14,000.00

Construction of church $23,000.00

Interior fittings and furnishing $ 8,000.00

$45,000.00

To supplement the $50,000 grant by the Hong Kong Government, the sum of $15,000 has to be raised. The present congregation are deeply sensible of the help already given by the people of St. John's Cathedral, St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, and the Peak Church, and would like to be able to raise this balance amongst themselves, but this is at present impossible, owing to the community being a small one, though steadily growing. Moreover, they are concentrating on the maintenance of the present work and accumulating a stipend fund for the future priest-in-charge of the new church. We appeal, therefore, to all those who value the work of the Anglican Church in Hong Kong to help in raising this sum of $15,000. Donations may be sent to the Hon. Treasurer, Miss R. Mow Fung, c/o Messrs. Gilman & Co., Ltd., 4A, Des Voeux Road Central, Hong Kong, and will be gratefully acknowledged. (Signed).

E. W. L. Martin—Bishop's Commissary.

A RECORD—

Three Million

FORD TRUCKS AND COMMERCIAL CARS

In this month of May, 1936, Ford Motor Company completes the building of three million trucks and commercial cars . . . one-third of all that have been built since the beginning of the industry.

There is no substitute for experience. Ford experience has been twofold. In addition to advancements in methods of manufacture, Ford engineers have gained a first-hand knowledge of the needs of owners in every field of hauling and delivery service. They know WHAT to build, as well as HOW to build it. They are able to design and construct units with exact knowledge of requirements . . . to anticipate changes in operating conditions and even to bring about such changes.

The 8-cylinder V-type engine, introduced by Ford into the commercial field, did just that. Bringing power to haul heavy loads at high speeds . . . and the flexibility to cover delivery routes quickly . . . it cut operating costs in all kinds of service.

Ford V-8 Trucks and Commercial Cars have been proved by the past. Experience has improved them for the future. Find out what Ford experience can contribute to your business. Call a Ford dealer to-day and set a date for an "on-the-job" test with your own loads, under your own operating conditions.

ELEPHANTS DO NOT FORGET GRIM REMINDER FROM BADULLA

Badulla (Ceylon).
A GRIM reminder that elephants do not forget nor forgive those who maltreat them comes from further inquiry made into the recent disturbance caused during the Wesak Perahera by the elephant that carried the casket of relics. The animal had attacked a man who had teased it for some hours before the procession began.

Greta Garbo, pictured above on her return to America from a year's vacation in Sweden, explained in perfect English to reporters that her good times at home had been spoiled by illness. However, she posed and talked, which is different from the Garbo who was so elusive.

Among the passengers booked by the Empress of Russia, which is due here from Vancouver next Thursday, is Mr. B. G. Butler, the Attorney of the Standard Vacuum Oil Co., Hong Kong.

Mr. Tso Chak Chun, of Paramount Films, is another candidate to be granted admission by the Council of The International Institute of Accountants (Inc.) Australia. Mr. Tso won the Institute's Gold Medal for First Place in the East in the June 1935 Intermediate test.

The Annual General Meeting of the Hong Kong Branch, R. E. O. C. A., will take place in the Garrison Lecture Hall on Friday June 12, commencing at 7.30 p.m. The Meeting will be followed by refreshments and a concert.

Mr. George M. S. Phoon, B.C., LL.B., F.I.A., registrar of the International Institute of Accountants (Inc.) Australia, and Principal of the School of Accountancy and Commerce, will speak on "Professional Examination in Accountancy" on Thursday June 4, at 8 p.m. before the English Forum, at the Y.W.C.A., Caine Road. Members and their friends will be cordially welcomed.

The man, who is now in the Badulla Hospital with a fractured thigh bone and is still in a state of semi-consciousness and who appears to have lost his power of speech, had been under the influence of liquor for several hours before the night's procession began and had been teasing the elephant in question by hanging on its ears and teasing it in many other ways.

Killed Its Keeper
This elephant, which belongs to Mr. Rambukpota of Hingurugamuwa, was the same animal that killed its keeper about two years ago, trampled the body under its feet and threw it into a river.

After that tragedy another keeper who had looked after the animal for nearly six years had given up the job because he found that the animal was uncontrollable.

Owing to its ferocious nature one of its forelegs is always tied up with a large chain to its neck as a curb. Even recently while he was being led in the procession he was chained like that.

In former years the Mutiyangana Temple had an elephant called Hordakota which had got its name as its trunk was slightly short due to an accident when a piece of its trunk was snapped by a crocodile when he was drinking water at a river. This elephant ran mad and was shot a few years ago, and after that the temple had another elephant named Kadira which had for the past two or three years carried the relics of the temple both during the August and the Wesak Peraheras. On the day it would appear that the casket of relics was to have been carried on the back of Kadira, but later it was removed and placed on the back of the big elephant. This is the first time that this elephant was employed to carry this relic.

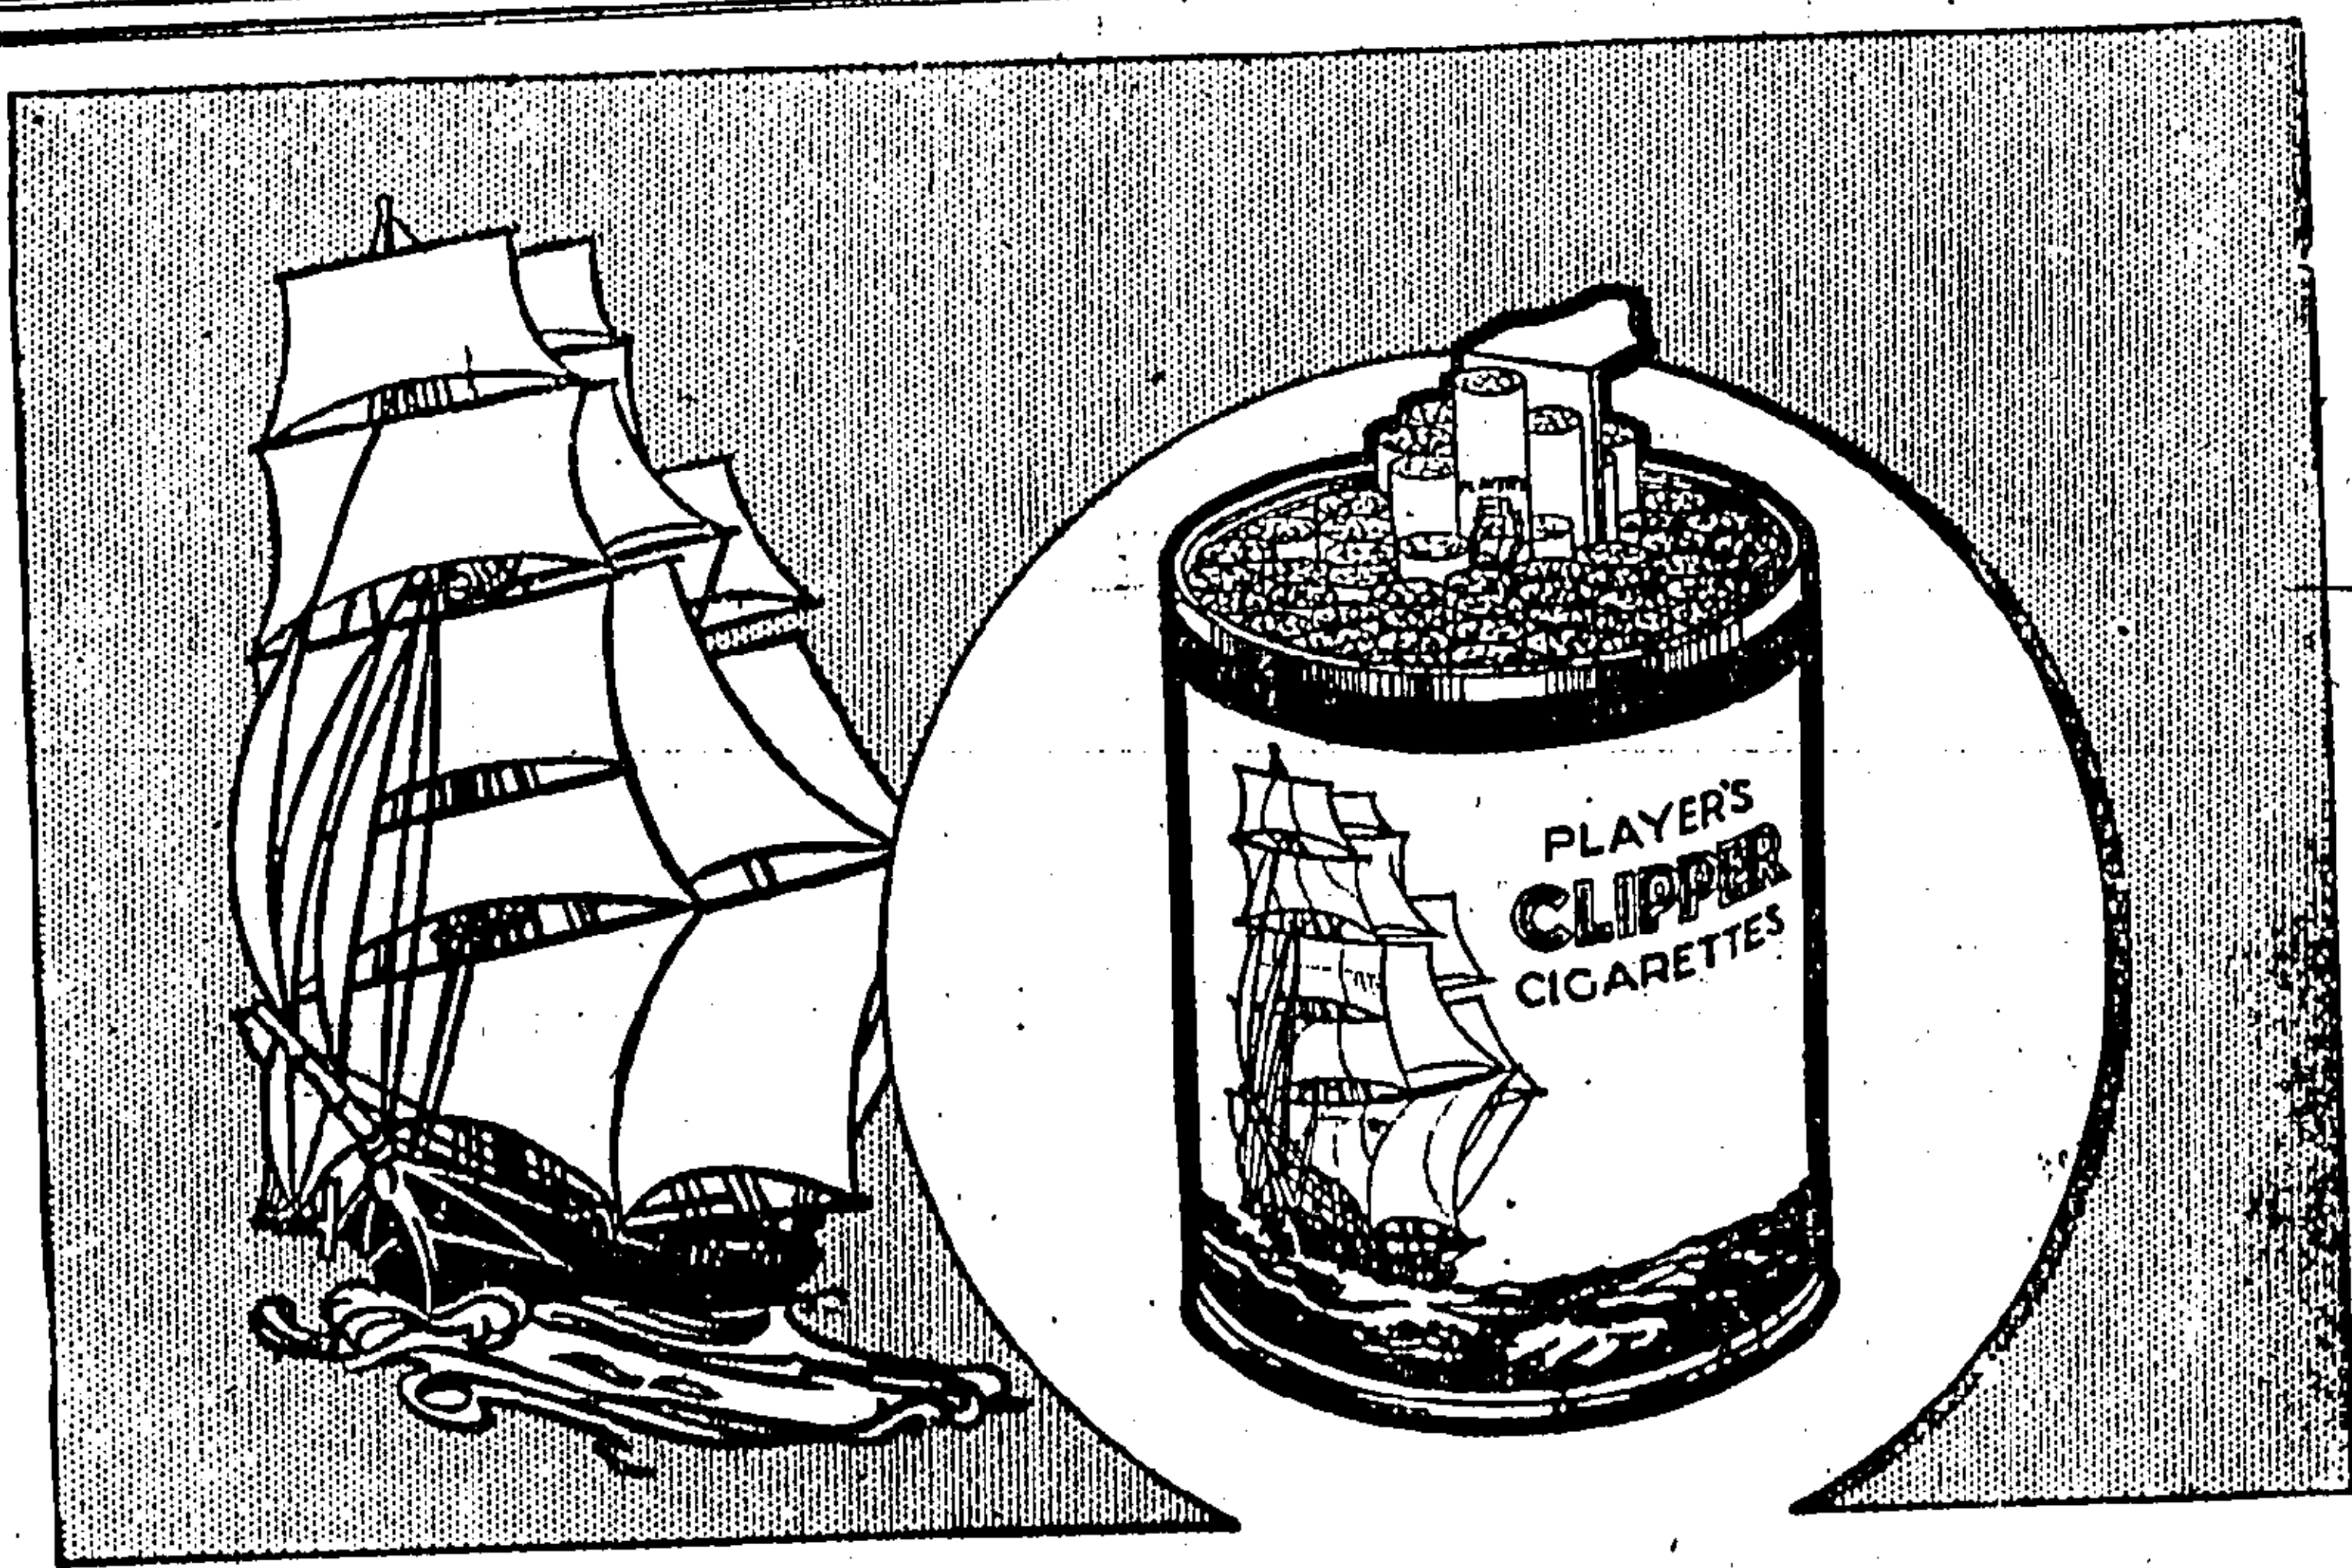

Recognised Tormentor

When the procession started, and even before that, the animal was very calm and showed no resentment when he was being teased by the injured man. The route of the procession is about a mile through the streets of the town. When the procession stopped at a junction the man who had teased the elephant went near the animal, and the elephant recognised him and gave him a sudden kick which felled him and he lay by the edge of a drain. Beyond this drain was a short embankment of earth. Having felled the man the animal tried to charge him with its head, but its keepers held it back by putting the crooked end of the goad to its ears. The force of its own charge sent the animal right against the embankment with its head coming to rest on it. All this time the fallen man was by the edge of the drain. The elephant being pulled back by its keepers, tried to get back to the road, and in doing so placed one foot forward to regain its balance. This foot, it was stated, was placed on one of the thighs of the fallen man, and the weight put on this foot by the elephant is said to have caused the fracture of the man's thigh bone.

As reported already, there was a large crowd at this junction at the time, and when the animal attacked the man the whole crowd was seized with panic and all took to their heels. When the panic-stricken crowd rushed for safety several boys and girls fell down and sustained bruises and cuts.

At the next Perahera Kadira will carry the casket of relics. The injured man was operated upon that morning. The relatives of the man have objected to an amputation of the injured leg.

Old Heriotians will celebrate Founder's Day with a dinner at the Gloucester Hotel to-morrow at 8 p.m.

HECTOR THOMSON WINS BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF CROWN

POOR CONDITIONS AT ST. ANDREW'S

AUSTRALIAN FALTERS DURING THIRD NINE NEW CHAMPION HITS SPECTATOR

St. Andrew's Yesterday. Hector Thomson, the Walker Cup player and former Scottish champion won the British Open Amateur Golf Championship to-day when he beat Jim Ferrier, the ex-Shanghai boy and Australian champion, by 2 up after a thrilling match under very wet conditions, and before a gallery of 5,000 spectators.

The players were all square at the ninth and at the 18th, Thomson establishing his winning lead during the first nine holes of the afternoon round, when he turned 2 up.

W. Lawson Little (America) won the title in 1934 and 1935, but was unable to defend it this year owing to the fact he has turned professional.

The weather was cold and overcast and there were only 1,000 spectators present at the start of a very youthful final—Ferrier is only 21 and Thomson 22.

There was nothing to choose between the pair over the first nine holes, both driving very smoothly and being conspicuous with their iron play. Thomson, however, contrasted the Australian's hard hitting with better judgment on the green, Ferrier was one up at the ninth hole.

Scratch figures for course are: 4, 4, 4, 5, 5, 4, 4, 3, 4=37. 4, 3, 4, 4, 5, 4, 4, 5, 4=37.

Thomson's card for the first nine was 5, 4, 3, 4, 5, 4, 4, 3, 5=37, while Ferrier's was 4, 5, 5, 4, 5, 3, 4, 3, 4=37.

THOMSON'S THREE PUTTS At the first hole Thomson took three putts after landing on the edge of the green, while at the third, Ferrier was bunkered from his approach shot, and it was here that Thomson brought off a beautiful iron shot dead to the pin.

At the fifth Ferrier drove into a bunker but recovered well and halved the hole owing to Thomson being short with his brassie shot.

Thomson then missed a three-foot putt after hitting a spectator.

It was now raining heavily, but Thomson holed a four-yard putt at the sixth. The Australian failed to sink a putt from two feet at the eighth and at the ninth recovered well from the rough to halve the hole, being 2 down at the turn.

AFTERNOON ROUND The cards over the last nine holes were as follows:—

Thomson: 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 5, 3=39
Ferrier: 4, 3, 4, 4, 5, 4, 4, 4, 4=39
Thomson's approach shots and putting improved greatly during the last nine holes. At the 8th he laid his approach shot dead to the pin and holed out to become victor amid terrific applause.

SIX-YARD PUTT At the 11th Thomson hit the top of the bunker, but he sank a three-yard putt at the 12th. Ferrier almost had a two at the 14th, but the Scot made a wonderful pitch shot stone dead. At the 15th both missed two-yard putts and at the 16th Thomson was bunkered, but holed a three-yarder. At the 17th Thomson's second shot was short and overran the green on the run-up. At the 18th Thomson's approach shot was six yards from the pin and he holed out for a great win.—Reuter.

PLAYERS INTERVIEWED Ferrier, interviewed after the match by Reuter, said, "It was a jolly good match and I only wish that some of my putts had gone down." Thomson said, "It was all terribly exciting. I could never be sure of winning, even when I drove to the last green. I am delighted that I have won for Scotland a title that has evaded us for so long."—Reuter.

Peiping: About 700 Japanese troops reinforcements have arrived from Tientsin and have proceeded to Tungchow. It is reliably reported that Mr. Hsiao Chen-ying, Mayor of Tientsin, has been removed from office at the request of the Japanese. This matter is not connected with the bomb explosion, as it took Ferrier's recoveries were one of effect yesterday.—Reuter.

THOMSON'S THREE PUTTS

Thomson took three putts at the 10th after his drive had landed seven yards from the pin, while the Australian made a delightful pitch shot to within five feet of the hole.

At both the 12th and 14th Ferrier pulled his drive out of bounds and sliced his fourth shot, while at the 15th he took three putts. At the 16th Ferrier was again bunkered from his drive, while the 18th and 17th holes were played in rain and a hailstorm.

Thomson looked sure to win the 17th, where the Australian was on the dreaded road, but Thomson was short and Ferrier made a fine recovery.

PARTIAL STYMIE SQUARES MATCH Thomson missed a short putt at the 18th and Ferrier, with a fine approach shot, made a successful negotiation for a partial stymie and squared the match as a result.

The cards for the first 18 holes were as follows:

Thomson: 5, 4, 3, 4, 5, 4, 4, 3, 5=37
Ferrier: 4, 3, 4, 4, 5, 4, 4, 4, 4=38

Thomson was playing more confidently but he was inclined, however, to be short with his approach shots and to miss holeable putts.

MONUMENT IN HONOUR OF GERMAN SAILORS BATTLE OF JUTLAND ANNIVERSARY

Berlin, Yesterday. Following a brilliant naval review before Chancellor Hitler yesterday, the Chancellor solemnly dedicated this morning a monument in honour of the German sailors who fell in the great war which has been erected in the village of Laboe on Kiel Bay.

The foundation stone of the monument was laid in 1927, thanks chiefly to the initiative of the late Admiral von Scheer, who commanded the German fleet at the Battle of Jutland, and its construction was begun two years later. The monument takes the form of an imposing granite tower 244 feet high, overlooking the sea.

After the ceremony of dedication had been performed Admiral Raeder delivered an address, in which he paid a high tribute to "those brave men and sailors whom fate pitted against us in an honourable struggle." The Admiral went on to say: "Wherever we crossed swords in open battle with the British navy, at Jutland, at Coronel and other places, we always learnt to esteem an adversary who was racially and intellectually related to us and who, true to his glorious traditions, was only aiming like us to do his utmost in self-sacrificing fulfilment of his duty towards his country."

Thus, on this 20th anniversary of the Battle of Jutland, when the thoughts of the German navy go out to their dead comrades, they unite with the thoughts of the British navy in common remembrance of all the men on both sides who perished heroically amid the roar of guns in the greatest naval battle of history, in obedience to the duty imposed on them by the honour of their respective flags.—Trans-Ocean Service.

TWO OFFICERS RELEASED Press messages from Djibouti report that the two members of the British Red Cross unit in Abyssinia who were stated to have been detained by the Italian military authorities at Dire Dawa have been allowed to resume their journey.—British Wireless Service.

YESTERDAY'S RAIN NEGLIGIBLE Figures Still Below Average Though the water shortage in the Colony is no longer as acute as it was a few weeks ago, the rainfall is still three inches below the average, the fall for the 12 hours ended at 10.30 p.m. yesterday being practically negligible, according to the Royal Observatory.

The reply that only 0.17 inches were recorded.

The total rainfall since January 1, is 18.96 inches against an average of 21.98 inches.

WHIT MONDAY AT HOME (Continued from Page 1.)

London: Cool weather is likely for Whitsun, with some rain, but there is no sign that holiday-makers have been deterred by this not wholly favourable forecast. Heavy holiday traffic is reported by the railways and air transport lines. Doubled and trebled air services are unable to satisfy the record demand for bookings. The London, Midland and Scottish Railway is running 500 and the London and North-Eastern Railway over 1,200 additional trains during Whitsun.

The mileage to be covered by the Great Western Railway holiday excursions until to-morrow and again on Monday is about 80,000 miles.

Among the many special attractions is the International Horse Show at Olympia, which opened to-day, when the Lord Mayor of London and Sheriff's rode in state through the arena.—British Wireless Service.

NEW AUSTRALIAN TARIFF Lancashire's Reason For Gratitude

RECIPROCAL ENDORSEMENT OF POLICY NEEDED

London, Yesterday. Sir Ernest Thompson, Chairman of the mission which visited Australia on behalf of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, reached London yesterday on its return and referred in a statement to the recent Australian tariff changes.

He said he was sure Lancashire would not only be grateful to the Australian Government but would endorse its policy in a reciprocal sense. The report of the mission, he announced, would include a section on the marketing of Australian products in the thickly populated area of which Manchester is the centre.—British Wireless Service.

Probably the finest amateur boxing card ever staged in the Colony will be featured at the Lee Theatre to-morrow night, when the Philippine Olympic boxing team for the Berlin Games will be seen in action against the cream of local talent, including several ex-amateur champions of England and Scotland.

Probably the best bout of the evening will be in the welterweight class when McBeattie, a former Scottish Amateur champion, will meet Simplicio de Castro, of the World Olympic team, over six rounds.

The following is the programme:—

Flyweights—(3 Rounds) 1. "Iron" Bux Jr. (Hong Kong) vs. "Boy" Walsh (England).

In connection with Argentina's request for the immediate convocation of the League Assembly, it is now stated by the newspaper Oeuvre that the Argentine delegate at Geneva informed the Secretary of the League of Nations, M. L'Oeuvre anticipates that the step taken by Argentina will have far-reaching repercussions.—Trans-Ocean Service.

It is generally believed that no special effort will be made on this trip to establish a record at the expense of the proper care for the new machinery, which has still to be "run in." At the same time there is gratification at the news that the great liner is proving so comfortable, and that without special effort she was able slightly to exceed on the first full day's run the mileage of the French liner Normandie, the present holder of the "Blue Riband," on her first day. IN AID OF FUNDS FOR "CAIXA ESCOLAR"

A concert will be given to-morrow at 9 p.m., in the Club de Recreio, Kowloon, under the distinguished patronage of the Consul for Portugal, Dr. Alvaro Brillante Laborinho, in order to secure funds towards the "Caixa Escolar" for the education of poor Portuguese boys.

The organiser of the Concert is Mlle. Maria Margarida Gomes, F.T.C.L., and among the items are the following:—

Traditional Portuguese songs and dances will be rendered by the Grupo de Amadores da Liga Portuguesa de Hong Kong, against picturesque scenery.

A Military Burlesque and a Surprise will be performed by Messrs. J. J. Ferguson, W. Simpson, D. Nooy and J. C. M. Grenham.

A comedy, in one act, in Portuguese, will be given by Mrs. Deolinda Alves and Messrs. Sebastiao Pinna, Januario Almeida and Gaspar Alves.

Mlle. Gomes has spared no pains in order to provide the audience with a pleasant evening. There will be no admission fee, but donations towards the above charitable funds will be gratefully received at the entrance to the Club de Recreio on the night of the Concert.

One Player Short

The Macau team arrived on the ground without one of their lady players and Miss Carmen Barretto was lent them for the occasion and proved the soundest of the three visiting players.

Fernandes, who partnered Miss Helena Ribeiro, had a weak service, but frequently scored at the net. Miss Amalia Nolasco was also impressive, sending over some very fast underhand services which frequently scored aces.

On the whole, the Recreio were full value for their win and Gosano and Miss Olga Ribeiro should never have lost their match against Fernandes and Miss Helena Ribeiro.

Scores:

F. J. Remedios and Miss Clary Botelho (Recreio):

beat J. de S. Fernandes and Miss Helena Ribeiro 0-6 beat A. H. de Mello and Miss Amalia Nolasco 0-2

RECREIO WIN AT TENNIS

Macau Mixed Doubles Team Beaten

ST. ANDREW'S BEAT VISITORS AT BADMINTON

Despite the rain which fell shortly before noon yesterday, Club de Recreio met their Macau visitors in a mixed doubles lawn tennis encounter on their courts at King's Park, yesterday afternoon, emerging winners by 8 sets to 1.

It was originally intended that each pair should play the best of three sets, but as time did not permit this it was decided to play the best of 11 games.

The Macau team were considerably handicapped in that they were not used to grass courts, and the courts were slightly heavy and made playing conditions extremely difficult for them.

de Mello Brothers

The de Mello brothers, however, were in fine trim and volleyed, smushed and drove with deadly accuracy.

The Recreio were fielding their Mixed Doubles League team and all three pairs were well balanced, although they were not seen at their best on account of the poor opposition.

F. J. Remedios and Miss Clary Botelho were the pick of the Recreio team, the latter being fairly sound on both hands, while some of her recoveries were really magnificent. A. V. Remedios and Miss Alice Rosa also played well together and the Recreio lady champion upheld her reputation, frequently out-pacing the opposition.

A. V. Gosano and Miss Olga Ribeiro were another well-balanced pair, but slowed down in the latter stages, being obviously affected by the trying conditions. Miss Ribeiro's best shot was a fairly strong forehand drive, while Gosano was sound in all departments, being particularly impressive in his overhead work.

One Player Short

The Macau team arrived on the ground without one of their lady players and Miss Carmen Barretto was lent them for the occasion and proved the soundest of the three visiting players.

Fernandes, who partnered Miss Helena Ribeiro, had a weak service, but frequently scored at the net. Miss Amalia Nolasco was also impressive, sending over some very fast underhand services which frequently scored aces.

Good Badminton Exhibition

Their apparent lack of experience in match-play, more than anything else, was the reason for the defeat of the Macau Badminton team when they lost by the odd game in nine to St. Andrew's Club in their initial appearance in the Colony last night. The match was played in St. Andrew's Hall.

The visitors played badminton of a high standard and the scores were 4 games all when F. V. Wong and A. S. Bliss engaged H. Noronha and A. Pereira in the last set of the evening. The St. Andrew's pair won by 21 aces to 11, but they by no means had things their own way.

The best player on view was undoubtedly Henry Kew of the home team. He played a very clever game and his wide repertoire of shots had the visitors guessing all the time.

P. Angelo, who is incidentally Macau's hockey centre-forward, is also their best badminton player. Taken as a whole the team gave promise of developing into an excellent side with more experience.

Nerves were in a Terrible Way — 'ASPRO' a Surprise

1 Garden Street, Middle Brighton, S.S., 15/12/32.
Dear Sirs,
Last week I had 18 teeth out, and not being well my nerves were in a terrible way; in fact, I had to be taken home from the dentist. I went on for a couple of days in terrible pain with my head and eyes, due to my nerves, so I had to go to a doctor. On my way home I bought a packet of 'ASPRO'. I took three and laid down, and to my surprise I woke up feeling lovely. Now, if I feel a slight headache at all I fly to my 'ASPRO'. I think 'ASPRO' should be in every home. I could mention a few more facts where 'ASPRO' has done good in my home. Once tried, always used.

EARLY PICTURES OF HONG KONG SOME IMPRESSIONS OF TRAVELLERS IN 1845 "MOST INSALUBRIOUS CLIMATE IN ALL CHINA"

(By PHYLIS JUBY)

IN 1845, from glimpses of the life in "Hoong-Keong" as recorded in the China Mail of that year, it would seem that the respectable residents were beginning to make the best of things. In a place "infested by rogues and vagabonds in great number." There is talk of the fair prospect of a theatre being built with the general approval of the public, after "testing the feelings of the middle classes upon the very important point of subscriptions." There is the "Pick-nic cottage" situated at a beautiful and commanding point to the south side of the Island, and overlooking the largest space of level ground on the Island. This cottage was found to afford such comfort and convenience to members of "The Club," that they were about to erect another cottage at "the pretty village of Pok-foo-lum," which, when the new road to the westward is completed, will not be more than an hour's walk from Victoria, and one, we have no doubt, which the inhabitants who make short excursions and can admire natural beauties will frequently indulge in.

At the same time Henry Charles Sirr was writing a description of Hong Kong, that "insalubrious colonial possession of the British," in his book "China and the Chinese." He spoke of the noble harbour where "ride at anchor many of the wooded walls of old England, manned by brave hearts of oak." On the island, he said, was a rocky, sterile mountain rising to a height from the shore, and on its side, where "lately revelled the venomous serpent and poisonous centipede, the town Victoria is built—the most unhealthy locality of the whole Island, situated as it is on the side of an arid rock which reflects the rays of a tropical burning sun in a fearful manner."

"Wong-nai-chong, or Happy Valley, which might with more propriety be called the Valley of Death, is the most picturesque portion of the Island. Cascades, which dash down from the arid grey time-worn rocks, meander in a pellucid stream through the valley, and as the waters meet with resistances in their course, from fragments of rock which act as nature's dams or locks, accumulate and accumulate, until, overflowing the opposing obstacles, they dash over in a stream of white creamy foam. The Chinese cultivate these barren rocks, carrying up earth to form terraces, mounding and irrigating this artificial soil, from which they procure paddy, or rice, and the exquisite bright brilliant green of the young paddy presents a most beautiful contrast to the aged rocks; pleasing alike to the artist or admirer of the handiwork of bounteous nature. Alas! sickness and death lurk amid this picturesque scenery. . . . The road to Chuk-choo passes through this valley and winds up the mountain-side, whence many picturesque views of the harbour and shipping may be obtained by the lover of nature as he pursues his way; broken rocks relieved by stunted trees, clad in dark green, with occasionally a noble mango or loi-chee tree, the branches drooping under the weight of the delicious fruit, give interest to this panorama of nature. But the vegetation is scant, and the rocks sterile, and all around appears to impress on the senses that Death is the presiding genius of Hong Kong."

Of all parts of China the climate

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORY. — No. 209.

ON the afternoon of May 24 of this bird will be made and, if possible, measurements taken of the Fanling road up the Lam Tsun Valley, over the pass and across the Pat Heung plain to Kam Tin. The afternoon was hot and time was limited, but we nevertheless spent much time in the lower part of the Lam Tsun valley and made up for it by setting a good pace for the rest of the way.

Only 24 species of birds were seen, but that number is not bad for a hot summer's afternoon when the birds as well as the walkers were inclined to be lazy. In the Hang Ha Po wood scores of Egrets were nesting, the species including the Cattle Egret and the Little Egret, both of which were predominating at the far end of the wood, with the Pond Herons at the near end. Chinese Pond Herons were the most numerous, but both here and later near Kam Tin the streaked pond herons, which Caldwell has named the Fokden Pond Heron, were also noticed.

Two large greyish-winged birds flew over the wood. These must have been Night Herons, probably Nycticorax n. nycticorax (L.), and this species is recorded as nesting in the same heronry. The ground was littered with broken eggshells and excreta had splashed all over the undergrowth, giving the wood a most characteristic smell. At one end of the wood were a few trees of Schinus molle and the fragrance of their flowers tempered the odour somewhat.

Interesting Egret
In another wood I spied in a distant tree a solitary egret's nest and a bird on the nest. As we approached it arose and flew away, but presently returned and alighted on a nearby branch. I distinctly noticed the white supercilious stripe. This bird was almost without doubt a Night Heron, and to us the especial point of interest was the fact that it was nesting apart from the other herons and egrets. Further study

Commissioner who visited Hong Kong in December of 1845, composed a sonnet on board the steamer on his way back to Canton. "It serves," says the China Mail, "as a specimen of the courtly feeling and agreeable flattery peculiar to the Chinese character."

Parts of it are somewhat in this wise:—
"The white dows drop down on the fragrant but leafless trees; the sombre vapours rise up from the enchanted hills and valleys; and the zephyrs soften with their sweet breath the gloom that overshadows the earth."

I gaze upon yonder royal white city, on the high cliffs, while the shades of evening gather round it. There it stands, lonely as a palace built upon a rock. . . .

And now I weep with bitterness and, as I sink upon my pillow, the splendid town is present to me still. I behold even in my sleep the fragrant incense-urn dispensing its thousand gushing streams over the mountains, while the city's white abodes seem glittering in the morning sun.

"The scene is changed. The bright moon issues from the parting clouds, and sparkles with her light feathery bamboo and shrubby jessamine, that overarch the islet's thousand habitations; and soon the silent morning sun starts from his golden sleep, and sheds a liquid lustre on the rocky steep that bears aloft a 'thousand, glittering and spacious mansions.'"

CONTRACT BRIDGE

LISTEN TO THE BIDDING

(By LT.-COL. H. M. BEASLEY)

DURING the Easter week-end I happened to be an interested spectator at a duplicate match in which some experienced players, who played somewhat deliberately and slowly, were taking part.

East was the dealer and opened the bidding with One Spade; South passed; West bid Two Diamonds; North passed; East then bid Two Hearts; South passed; West now bid Two Spades, and all passed.

It was South's turn to lead. South should have gained the following information from the bidding:

As East has bid spades originally and subsequently hearts—both South and North can infer that East's hand is one of three types—either of the 5, 4, 3, 1 distribution, 5, 4, 2, 2 type, or the 5, 5, 2, 1.

Now as to the probable contents of West's hand. It is clear from the bidding—first, that he has not a very strong hand. He has bid Two Diamonds over One Spade, therefore it is obvious that he has 5 or more diamonds.

On the second round of bidding, after hearing his partner say Two Hearts, he reverted to Two Spades, indicating a preference for spades and a lack of heart support, and incidentally a weakness in the club suit.

It is clear, therefore, that his hand is probably of the 5, 4, 2, 2 pattern, containing 5 diamonds, 4 clubs, 2 hearts, and 2 spades, probably with an honour in the spade suit.

South is now in a position, after having summed up the situation, to select what is probably the most advantageous opening lead.

If his hand does not contain any strength in diamonds, he can infer that his partner, North, holds the balance of diamonds not held by West, and he can therefore select this lead or the club suit, which has not been mentioned by either opponent.

Assuming that South holds 4 spades, 4 hearts, 3 clubs, and 2 diamonds, he can then diagnose the distribution of the four hands as follows:

2 Spades	N	5 Spades
2 Hearts	W	5 Hearts
5 Diamonds	S	2 Diamonds
4 Clubs	E	1 Club

4 Spades
4 Hearts
2 Diamonds
3 Clubs

After he has made an opening lead he will see to what extent his estimation of the distribution is correct, and it is quite possible he may find that he is slightly wrong.

South's hand actually was as follows:

S—Q 10 6 2
H—K 9 4 3
D—10 6
C—J 10 4

If you go through the process of making a mental note of the bidding, it will very often assist you materially to select the most advantageous lead.

Unfortunately there are occasions when the bidding is of no aid to you. For example, if East bids One No Trump and West bids Three No Trumps. South has no information whatever as to where any strength or weakness lies and has only his own hand and judgment to guide him.

Holding the following type of hand, I should lead the Jack of hearts against a Three No Trump contract:

S—Q 7 2
H—J 6
D—K 7 5 4
C—K 8 6 2

I would prefer a short suit lead in a situation of this description,

LONE VOYAGE ROUND

ADVENTURE IN 26-FT. BOAT

MR. W. H. DALY, who is well known locally and in Canton, proposes to set out from Keppel Harbour, Singapore, shortly in a small ship's boat on a trip round the world. At the end of last month Mr. Daly gave a public lecture at the Victoria Memorial Hall, Singapore, on his proposed voyage, at which he gave full particulars of the route he proposes to follow and the dimensions and fitting of the boat he is to use for the purpose. It is 26 feet long, and has a beam of 8 ft. and a depth of 3 ft. 6 ins. A cabin, water tanks, foredeck covering and rigging are now being fitted under Mr. Daly's supervision.

He is expected to leave at about the end of this month, as the south-west monsoon is already blowing at Singapore and he will have to tack against it through the Archipelago. His route is via Java and Bali, round the coast of Australia to New Zealand, from there across the Pacific by way of Fiji, Samoa and Hawaii to San Francisco, then down the coast to Los Angeles and through the Panama Canal to the West Indies. From there he proposes to sail up the coast of North America as far as Canada, and then back to the West Indies; Barbados is to be the jumping-off point for the Atlantic crossing to London by way of the Cape Verde Islands.

To Panama In A Year

Mr. Daly admits that he will have to rub up his navigation, as he has not done any for over 15 years, before he begins the voyage. He has done a certain amount of small boat sailing since, but has not sailed regularly since he came to Singapore.

Not much navigation will be required on a voyage like this, anyway," he said. "I shall be hugging the coast as much as possible, with the exception of the 2,500-mile stretch between Honolulu and America.

I reckon to reach Panama in about a year, after having sailed a distance of 18,000 miles from Singapore. I hope to average about 75 miles a day. This would mean 240 days at sea and half as many again in port."

Questioned about supplies Mr. Daly said that he will carry 100 days' dry provisions and he will augment these with fresh provisions bought in ports. He will also carry at least a 100 days' supply of water in specially fitted tanks.

The boat will not be fitted with an auxiliary motor.

"Mata Erin"

Mr. Daly has called the boat "Mata Erin" (the Eye of Ireland). The sizes of boats used on comparable world voyages have been:

"Spray"—Captain Slocum, an American, went round the world about 1890—length, 38 ft. 9 in.; 14 ft. beam; depth in hold, 4 ft. 9 in. Nine tons 12.71 tons gross.

"Islander"—Harry Pigeon, American farmer, round the world, 1921-24—length, 34 ft.; beam, 10 ft.; draught, 5 ft. without load. Had three sails totaling 680 sq. ft.

"Firecrest"—Alain Gerbault, French tennis player, who passed through Malay Archipelago several years ago on world voyage—length, 38 ft. 7 in.; w.l., 8 ft. 6 in.; beam, 8 ft. 6 in.; draught, 6 ft. 6 in.; displacement, 12 tons; total length of mast above deck, 40 ft.

"Mata Erin"—length, 26 ft. beam, 8 ft., depth (inside) 3 ft. 6 in.

The voyage of the "Mata Erin" will be west to east, contrary to all others (as far as is known). Asked how he proposed to sail single-handed, Mr. Daly said:

Boredom Unlikely

"My sleep depends on the weather. If it is bad weather I will throw out a sea anchor and leave the storm to blow itself out."

He stressed his intention not to take any European companions, because he felt the strain of the long association in such cramped quarters would be too much. He might take a Malay seaman for the first part of the voyage through the Malay archipelago.

It was suggested to Mr. Daly that he would be bored to death on the voyage.

"I do not think so," he said. "I shall be so occupied in sailing and handling the boat that I will have no time to be bored. I also intend brushing up my French, Spanish and German when I do have any spare time, as these languages will be very useful.

As East has made an opening bid of One No Trump in preference to a major suit.

The purport of my lead of the Jack of hearts is not likely to be misread by my partner after he has seen the dummy and his own hand.

In selecting this card I conceal from the opponents what little defensive strength I hold in the other suits.

MR. W. H. DALY

"The beauty of the trip is that I am not in a hurry. I shall not worry if I arrive in any particular port a few days late. My motto is going to be 'Safety first.' I will take no unnecessary risks. He will take a wireless set which is capable of receiving but not transmitting.

Urge To Roam

Mr. Daly was finally asked his reasons for this strange adventure. They are:

"I am a roamer by nature. I ran away to go to sea when I was 15 years old. After the war I couldn't settle down in England, so I came out to China.

"I was in Canton for two years, in Hong Kong one year and in Shanghai two years. I came to Singapore in 1925 and joined Harrison, Barker and Co., Ltd., but resigned in 1927, and since then have been roaming around.

"I went home at the end of 1931, but found unemployment very bad there and came back to Singapore.

"Now I feel that I am taking root again, so it is time to be heaving up my anchor."

MOTOR MAKES ITS OWN FUELNew Sewage-Disposal
ProcessFORD V-8 ENGINE RUNNING
SINCE MARCH 1935

Operating on methane gas derived from a sewage-disposal process which in turn is activated by the engine, the Ford V-8 motor has achieved something resembling perpetual motion. The engine is in regular daily use at the Greencastle, Indiana, sewage disposal plant.

The V-8 engine serves two functions in the plant. Power from the engine drives an air-blower supplying oxygen to the aeration basin where bacteria are propagated. Further, heat from the engine's cooling system is used to keep the septic tank at a temperature favourable to bacterial action. Under the conditions thus induced the bacteria become active, this resulting, incidentally, in the formation of the methane gas. The gas, in turn, is piped to the air intake of the engine, where it is mixed with air before it enters the motor.

The engine has been in successful operation since March 1, 1935, using the methane gas exclusively as fuel. It runs 24 hours a day, seven days a week, at a speed of 1,500 revolutions per minute. Two regular Ford water-pumps are used to pump the water nearly a quarter of a mile to the septic tank, through the coils and back to the motor. According to the engineer in charge, only minor repairs have been necessary during a year's operation and the engine is performing perfectly.

CHINESE DRUG SITUATION PERIL TO WORLD

ANOTHER VESSEL PIRATED SHIP PLUNDERED OFF SWATOW

APPARENT NEW HIDE-OUT ON COAST

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

Pirates are again active on the Kwangtung coast, as indicated by the seizure of the small Chinese steamer On Hoi, which plied between Swatow and coastal towns in Southern Fukien, according to a report received here last night from Swatow.

The vessel left Swatow on May 24 for To Lin, close to the Fukien border, and was pirated on the way. As usual, some pirates boarded the vessel in the guise of passengers. The piracy was quite simple, as the vessel was neither equipped with wireless nor had taken any anti-piracy precautions.

After the pirates took command of the steamer, other pirates from two sailing vessels came alongside and boarded the On Hoi. All the valuables of the passengers were taken, in addition to rice and other cargo on board. Two passengers were taken as prisoners.

The pirates then abandoned the On Hoi, which continued her journey to To Lin. A report of the piracy was conveyed to the officer commanding a company of troops at To Lin.

It is noteworthy that the sea rovers did not order the captain of the pirated ship to steer her to Bias Bay. Apparently a new hide-out is located somewhere north of Swatow.

METAL-WORKERS' STRIKE

Obscure Position In France

MEDIATORY EFFORTS CONTINUE

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Paris, Yesterday.

The situation in the metal-workers' strike remained unchanged this morning, the total number of strikers in the Paris region being estimated at 40,000. The metal-workers' union announced that the Renault motorworks, which alone employs 83,000 hands, as well as the Gnome et Rhone aeroplane motor works, have granted the workers' demands, the latter having even agreed to pay wages for the period when the workers were on strike.

Two factories were vacated by the strikers last evening, but for technical reasons work will not be resumed until next Tuesday. The Government meanwhile is continuing its efforts at mediation, which have hitherto failed owing to the strikers' refusal to vacate the factory premises pending the negotiations for a collective agreement.—Trans-Ocean Service.

NECESSARIES OF LIFE SOMETIMES LACKING

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Moscow, Yesterday.

Serious shortcomings in the existing system of supplying the Russian home markets with the necessities of life, notably in the rural districts, have been brought to light by the committee of control appointed by the Council of the People's Commissaries.

In a report just issued here the committee, after recalling the fact that the whole system of supply has been overhauled as recently as the autumn of 1935, goes on to say that despite this reform matters have not improved, and that the central union of co-operative stores entirely neglects the requirements of the peasantry.

According to the report a large number of stores controlled by the central union completely lack such necessities as salt, soap, sugar, matches and tobacco, while the quality of such goods as are sold is extremely bad. The report further complains of the arbitrary increase of prices, innumerable thefts and malversations, and a total lack of discipline and supervision.

The report concludes by announcing severe measures in order to remedy this unsatisfactory state of affairs, and control of the functioning of the apparatus for supplying the home markets.—Trans-Ocean Service.

To enforce their demands for relief, 30 men and women besieged the chambers of the Board of Aldermen in St. Louis, Missouri, and voted a hunger-strike after these sandwiches had been finished. The decision was made after the Health Commissioner refused to permit further deliveries of food to the participants, because there are no facilities for eating in the crowded assembly gallery.

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Twenty-two farm workers and two members of the Civil Guard were killed and about 100 persons injured during a shooting affray between police and Left extremists in the village of Yeste in the province of Albacete yesterday. The clash occurred when the police attempted to expel farm workers from the estate of a former Deputy of the Radical Party, which had been illegally occupied by the former.

Canton's Relations With Nanking

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Mr. Chow Lu, Chancellor of Sun Yat-sen University, arrived this morning by the m.v. Victoria en route to Germany to attend the 550th anniversary of the foundation of Heidelberg University and also the Olympic Games, after which he is proceeding to England.

He declared on arrival that Japan was out to dominate China, using force, bluff and smuggling to achieve that end. Any foreign Powers assisting China would be regarded as China's friends.

Mr. Chow told Reuter that there was no truth in the Tokyo story that the gulf between Nanking and Canton was widening. Asked whether Mr. Hu Han-min's death would result in closer relations between Nanking and Canton, he said: "That is to be expected."—Reuter.

NARCOTICS IN CHINA

Clandestine Factories In Hankow

Genoa, Yesterday.

At the meeting of the Opium Advisory Committee, during the discussion of the importation of acid and acetic anhydride into China, it was revealed that the 10,000 kilos imported in the last six months, 9,000 was by Japanese, especially at Hankow.

Mr. Victor Hoo, the Chinese representative on the committee, suggested that an explanation might lie in the fact that four clandestine factories of narcotics were known to exist in the Japanese concession at Hankow, which produced eight kilos a day—considerably more than sufficient for the total legitimate needs of the world.—Reuter.

SMUGGLERS IN NORTH INSUFFICIENT PENALTIES

RESOLUTION AT GENEVA

HEAVY EXPORTS

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Geneva, Yesterday.

The consultative Opium Commission of the League of Nations, after a very lengthy discussion on the evils of drugs and opiates, lasting several days, finally adopted a resolution yesterday in which the situation in China, especially in those frontier provinces under Japanese control, was described as constituting a peril for the whole world because, owing to the lack of any kind of penalties, smugglers had been attracted in large numbers.

The Chinese Government was asked to continue the measures it has taken in order to cope with the evil. The Japanese Government was asked to take steps immediately to mete out punishment to all those smugglers found under Japanese jurisdiction, "wherever they may be."

During the course of the long debate the Americans and Japanese had a sharp passage at arms because the Americans accused the Japanese of permitting the very active export of opiorifics from the Chinese provinces under their administration, the result being that the American continent was suffering acutely from this illicit trade.—Trans-Ocean Service.

How Cars Get Out Of Control

THERE is a type of automobile accident in which the explanation commonly offered is that "the car went out of control." In many cases, however, according to Yandell Henderson, in an analysis of the reflexes of drivers of automobiles, subsequent examination demonstrates that the steering gear, motor and brakes were in good order. It is hence really the motorist who "goes out of control" and the explanation for his action lies in an instinctive reflex, which submerges the conditioned reflex built up by driving a car.

The reflex concerned is the "self-righting reflex," explains the Journal of the American Medical Association. This is excited by any sudden disturbance of equilibrium. It is a complex reaction in which the head, body, arms and legs are all involved. When it occurs in the driver of a car, the impulse that dominates him is to steady himself in his seat. He grasps the wheel with his whole strength. His arms stiffen, and he is as likely to steer off the road as along it.

Simultaneously, and as part of the same nervous and muscular complex, he performs another act so instinctive that in most cases he is entirely unconscious of it. His legs are forcibly extended and his feet are pressed down hard. It is the muscular act that Sherrington, who discovered it in the dog, named the "extensor thrust." It is thus obvious that in drivers it will result in sudden hard pressure on the accelerator pedal.

Since it is impossible to change this reflex, which may occur following an initial jolt or even a mental start, some other means of preventing this type of accident must be discovered.

On reviewing a considerable number of accidents, Professor Henderson feels that at least 10 per cent. are due to the initiation of this reflex. It is characteristic that the thrust occurs in both legs and hence a clue to the necessary safety measures is readily available.

LIFE IN ANCIENT TIMES

WHAT with automobiles to run us down and aeroplanes to fall in mid-air and explosions to blow us up, we might call this not the machine age but the dangerous age. But the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has made a study which shows that the lives of the ancients were scarcely less precarious.

Out of a representative sample of 275 celebrated Greeks and Romans 136 came to violent ends—nearly half. The sceptical vital statistician of the Metropolitan Life approaches the figures cautiously. It is natural that violent deaths should attract more attention than deaths from prosaic disease. So he casts about and finds a supplementary grouping of 126, the causes of whose ends were not recorded.

By adding these to the original 275 he obtains a total of 401. But the violent deaths still amount to 34 per cent.

Perhaps those who died with their boots on were soldiers and adventurers. If so, the statistics are not to be wondered at. So the statistician classifies the 401 names into callings—statesmen, soldiers, philosophers, authors. It turns out that of 180 statesmen 115 came to violent ends—64 per cent. Including those who died from unknown causes the total amounts to 222 and the percentage to 52.

Life is to-day no more perilous than it was in ancient times. In spite of all our homicides, suicides and accidents only 9.5 per cent of the general population dies violently. "These figures are not so widely different from the 12 per cent. which we have noted as characteristic of persons following peaceful pursuits in antiquity," comments the Metropolitan Life's statistician.

Warfare To-day

Warfare to-day is not much more terrible than it was in ancient times. Among the French the proportion of deaths in battle and from wounds in the World War was 41.8 per cent. in the entire male population of military age over the period of the war; among the Germans, 42.4 per cent.; among the British, 33.8 per cent., and among the Italians, 22.1 per cent. The figures are a little lower, though not much, for the soldiers and statesmen of antiquity used as a sample for comparison. We must not forget that the World War was a transitory condition. The figures for the ancients cover the general records of history. "Surely the ancients did live dangerously."

About TOWN

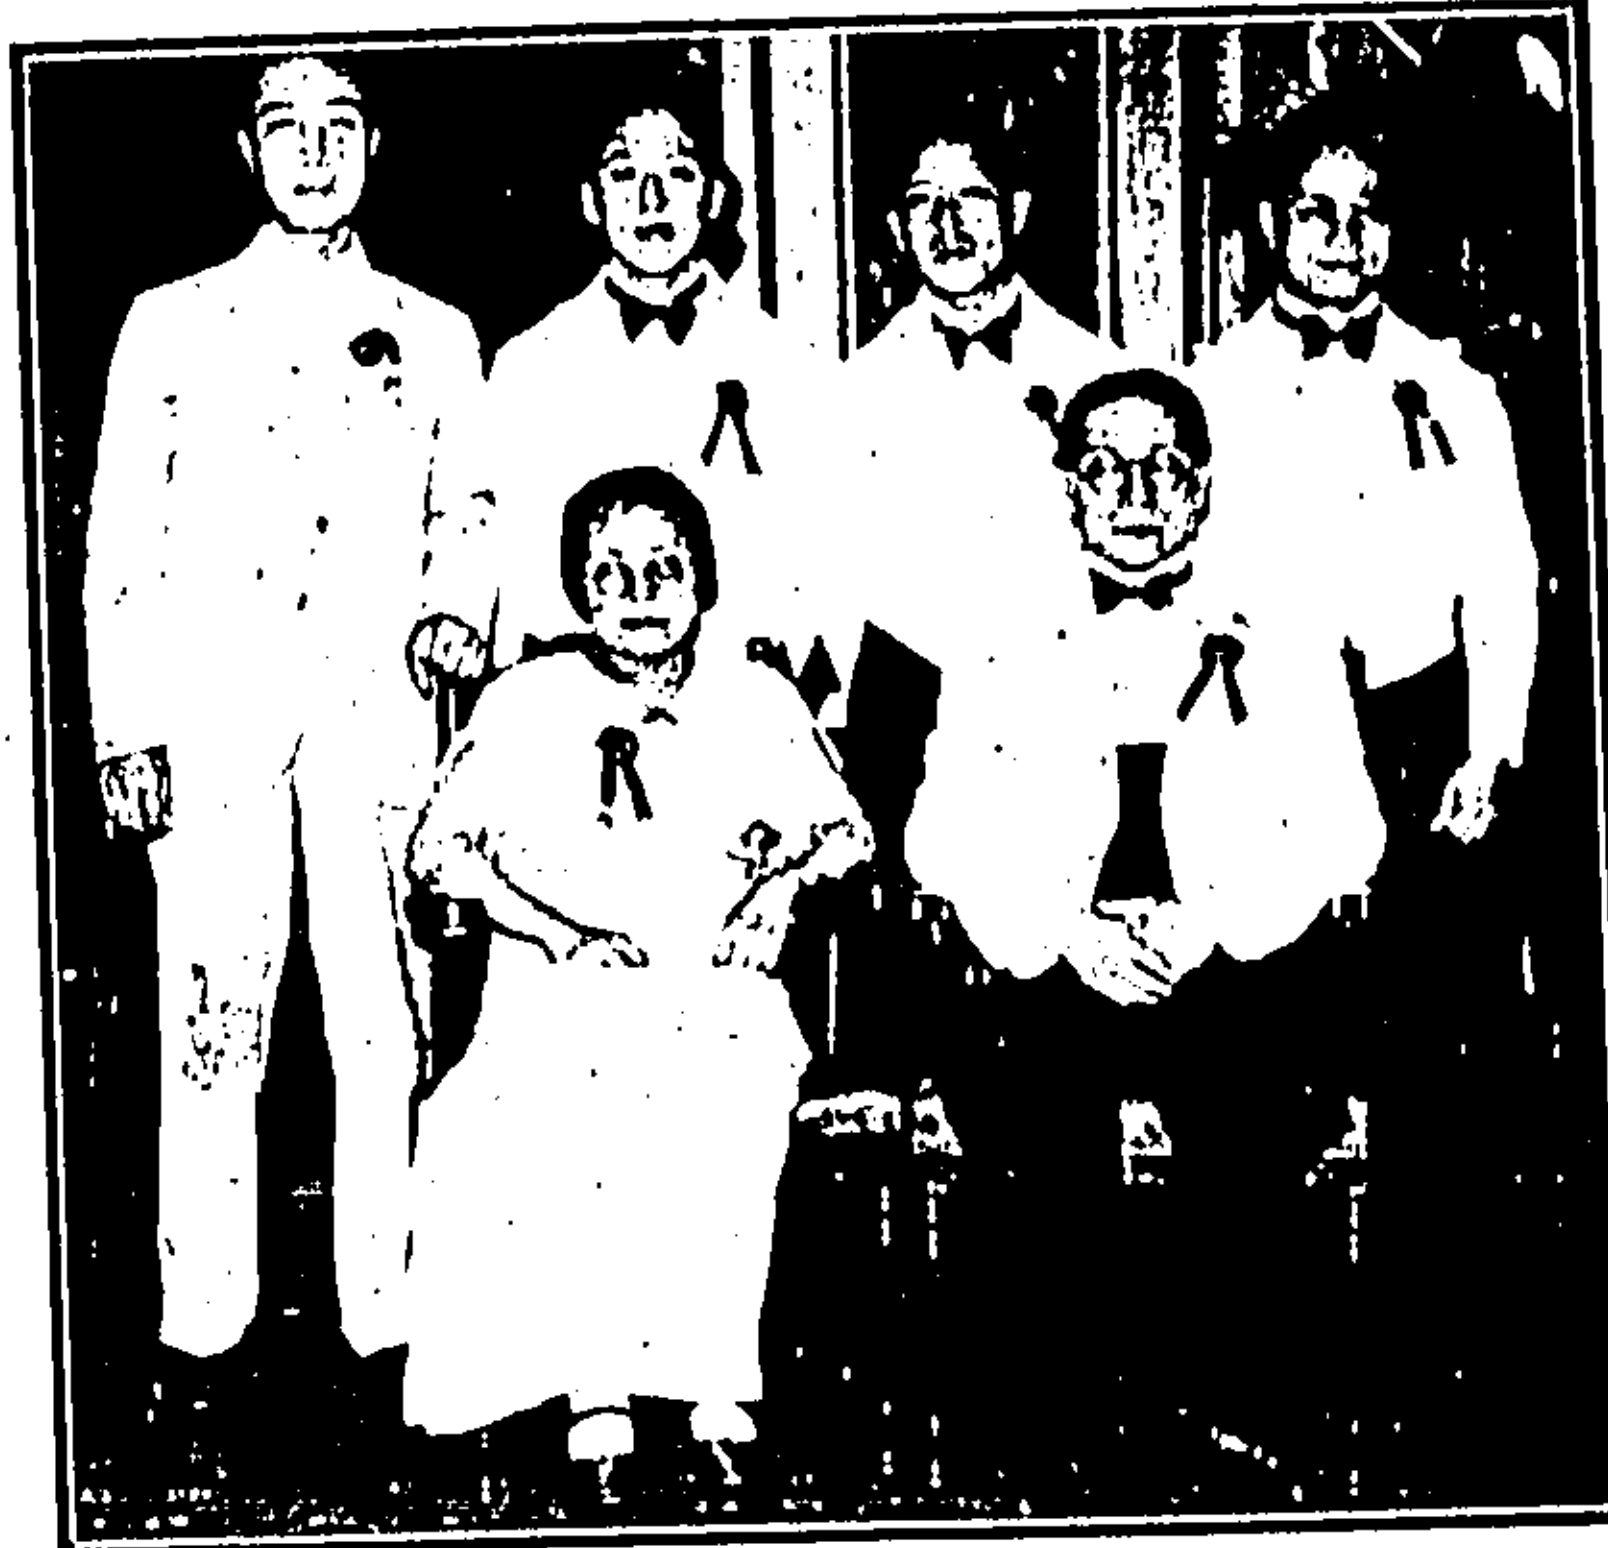

EMPIRE DAY is a good example of a law of social custom that one sees proved over and over again—that it is as difficult to start a celebration and get it adopted into the popular tradition as it is to stop one that has been so adopted. With people of our race carrying into distant lands the same general outlook on life, and at the same time insisting on controlling their own affairs, what could be more natural than to emphasise the element of common sentiment by a celebration which would have the advantage of marking their one point of admitted union, without prejudice to their theories of self-government? That was the function that was performed by "Queen's Birthday" for the two generations during which the great migration was taking place, and there was a general feeling that the associations of the day could not be carried over to any other date which would mark the personal birthday of subsequent monarchs.

Lord Meath

QUITE probably, all the same, the 24th of May would have been allowed to merge itself into the dead level of other days, but for the enthusiasm of Lord Meath, whose inspiration in life was a fierce rebellion against the destruction of ideals that he felt to be a consequence of modern commercial life combined with the narrowing of elementary education to the teaching of the "three R's". It does not seem so long ago that he called his first meeting to advocate retention of the date as a means of honouring, not the extension of commerce and industry, but the men who had given their lives to spreading what were then taken to be the characteristic British ideals of a fair deal, help for the underdog, and equal justice for oppressed races. There can be no doubt that that first meeting, mostly of personal friends, at the old Hotel Metropole—"the great caravanserai of Northumberland Avenue," as it was called—has done a good deal to keep the dreams alive.

School Golf

AT any rate the most cross-grained critics cannot find fault with the spread of sports from England all over the world. It is in the national vein that it is the sports that have won so much popularity, the contests in which one man measures his skill and strength against another. But the conquest of the world by golf should be put down to the credit of Scotland, for the claim that there was an ancient club that played on Blackheath is little more than a quibble. It was a small club of Scots resident in London, who had no power of attracting attention or popularity. For years the Englishman maintained that golf was a game for the middle-aged, and as middle-age is unpopular and mediocre, nobody cared to incur that classification. All the more hopeful therefore is it for the future of our contests with American experts that a school-boy of Stowe, under 18 years of age, should have defeated Cy-

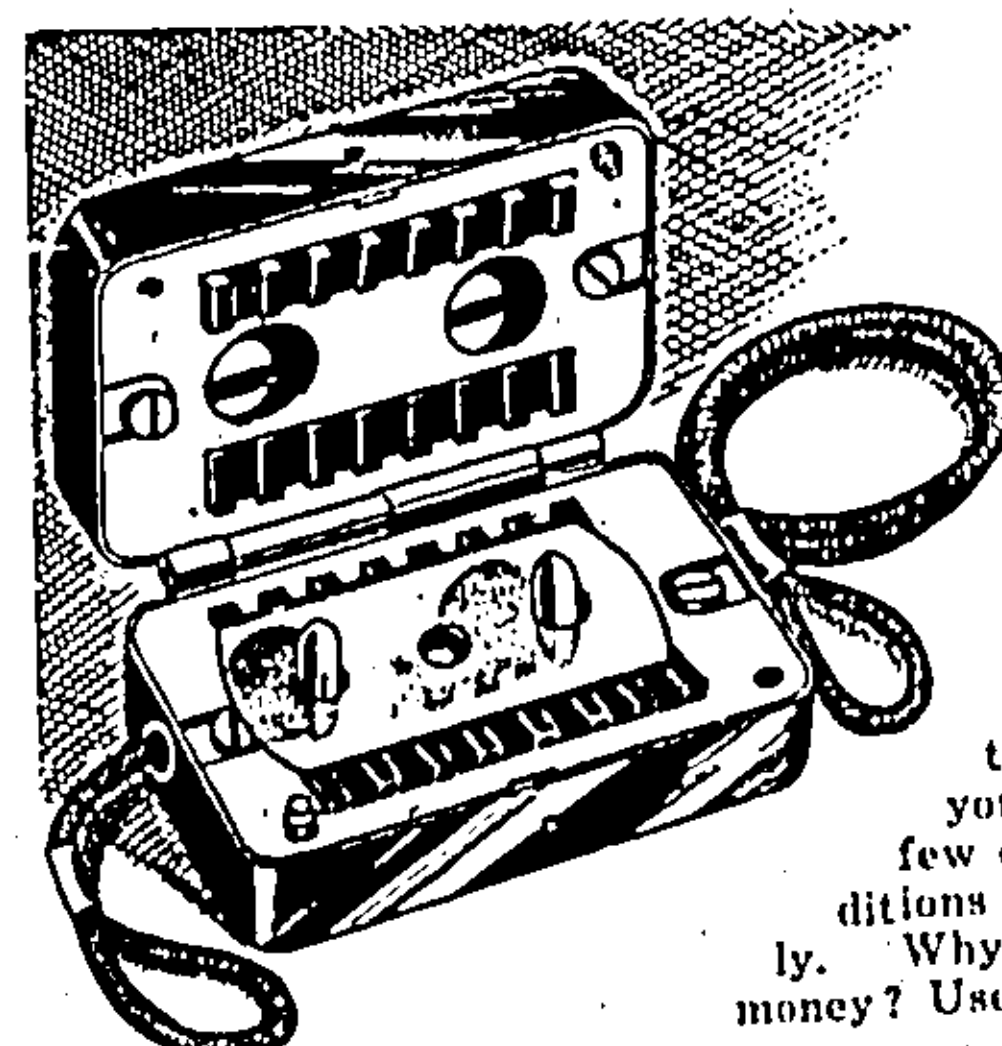

The retiring committee of the Euro-American Returned Students' Union, photographed at the annual dinner, held at the Hong Kong Hotel on May 22. Standing, l. to r., Mr. Andrew Cheung, Mr. C. H. ril Tolley, and that by the most nerve-trying ordeal of championship matches, a decisive putt on the last green. At St. Andrews, where the links belong to the municipality, there has never been any lack of boys that could play quite a good game, and the youngsters have always, even before the school age, had the chance of getting discarded clubs from the Morris or Porgan makers, and cutting them down to half-size. Putting courses were a tolerated obstruction in the public streets, and even approach shots were only complained of when somebody happened to get hit. On the level of actual ability to play the game a team of the "Thistle" club of local professionals, or the "St. Andrew's" club of tradesmen and mechanics, could easily hold their own against the gentlemen of the "Royal and Ancient". The fact is that very few people even become first-class at anything they have not begun as boys and girls. If we want to avoid such criticisms as that of the visitor who in an interview last week said that he thought the standard of the average club-member in Hong Kong was unduly low, we ought to give the boys and girls of our schools a chance of playing during the hours when the normal adult is busy. We would then see the same thing happening in golf as in football, the development of teams that need "fear no foe". So we come round circuitously to the point with which we started—that in founding "Empire Day" with the conviction that if you want to get solid results for sound ideals you must begin with the boys and girls.

READING of Janet last week you thought possibly that I was all for the return of those "good old days." No, I am a very different creature even from Mamma—and I would not have it otherwise. Ours is a world where rabbits come out of eggs in a saline bath—a very different world from the one when ladies did not drink hard liquor, did not paint their lips, their eyelids or their fingernails. We may be the Girl of the Gay Nineties over again in our latest shirtwaists and puffed sleeves, veils and lace jabots and severely tailored suits, with an enthusiasm for the dachshund and the spotted coach-dog, but with a difference—we are brought up to date and equipped with all modern improvements. The model of the Gay Nineties has lost 25 pounds and is posing for the modernists.

She has abandoned the Grecian bend. She has cut off masses of wind-blown hair and replaced the natural curl with a permanent wave. She has chopped some 12 to 14 inches off the tailored skirt that swept about her feet and made a feature of her taffeta petticoats in a way that her archetype would have considered more daring than indiscreet. Suppose we modern wearers of the leg-o'-mutton sleeve were content to go back to that older world, we would have to dress our young bodies in knitted underwear—cotton in summer and wool in winter. Then, to help us gain those beautiful, flowing lines, would come a straight-front corset of stout cotton, heavily boned to hold us in the prescribed shape. Over that a starched and ruffled corset cover, a petticoat smooth about the hips and eight feet wide about the feet, a flaring woollen skirt that swept the sidewalk, a starched shirtwaist with long, puffed sleeves and a collar boned to the ears, black stockings, high shoes and a wide sailor skewered to our pompadours.

If the clothes would be difficult, the way of life and the attitude of the world about this Girl of the Gay Nineties would be twice as hard. It was the time when a clever young suffragist asked, "Are women people?" and the implied answer was "No." Unmarried, she was a lady of leisure dependent for pocket money on her father's temper. After breakfast she played the piano for a bit—she knew most of Gilbert and Sullivan by heart—and then she had the coachman drive her down Main Street so that she could look at the new Summer lawns and dimities. In the afternoon, carrying her new violet parasol and buttoned into tight kid gloves, she would make a round of calls with her mother, and in the evening there was that new Barrie play "The Little Minister."

These ladies did remarkably little. They played a bit of golf (in long skirts), they sat elegantly in buggies, or were rowed in boats, trailing a finger in the water or resting a finger in the water or resting a finger in the water or resting a finger in the water. They would have died had they been asked to wear shorts in a public tennis match. They swam a bit (in alpaca swimming dresses, all complete with bloomers, sleeves, collars, vestees). They would have died had they played the piano in the twilight. They haunted summer resorts . . . once or twice they read a book.

But the major occupation of these young women was husband-hunting, and on this they concentrated all their talents. They hunted husbands at whist parties, on beaches, in the drawing-room and in the woods. At this combination of sport and business they were persons of infinite resource, more guileless than doves and more dangerous than tigers. But with all due credit to the absorbing and enduring fascination of romance, it is no wonder that their greatest enemy, next to spinsterhood, was boredom. To us their boredom seems a pathetic commentary on the effect of security. We are harassed in 1936, and interested, and alarmed; but only a man with a pension for life could possibly look as bored nowadays as those prosperous men and women did in the pictures of those idyllic days.

There are other factors besides the turn of the wheel to explain our latest fashions. There is the accession to the throne of another Edward, at whose grandfather's court the girl made her bow. There is the matter of styles presented in certain plays and movies dear to the early Edwardians and to us. There is also the possibility that this high-pressure, high-powered world of 1936, with its financial snarls and international tangles, is genuinely homesick for that apparent peace and simplicity prevailing when Grandfather Edward and the Girl of the Gay Nineties were rulers.—PHILIPPA.

Chinese Aces To Retire?

APART from Lee Wai-tong, who has already stated that he will be retiring from soccer after his return from the Berlin Games, it is almost certain that Pau Ku-ping and Tso Kwai-shing will also be retiring, while it is also doubtful whether Fung King-cheong and Ip Pak-wah will continue playing.

Goalkeeper For Argonauts

THE Argonauta hockey team have discovered a very promising goal-keeper in Maxwell, a schoolboy at La Salle College, and it is felt that, on the display he has given in his first few games, he should easily find a place in the team next season.

Bowler Keen on Baseball

W. E. HOLLANDS, the Police bowler, is a keen follower of baseball and is seen at all the league games. Several years ago he used to umpire the games and, in view of the shortage of umpires for League games, I am sure he would be only too pleased to officiate again if approached.

Lt. Chaplin's Good Work

FEW realise the amount of work Lieut. C. Chaplin, of the East Lancashire Regiment, has done for the Council of the Football Association. He succeeded Capt. Hague on both the League and Emergency Committees as Chairman, and it was unfortunate that so much work fell on these committees during his tenure of chairmanship. He was greatly instrumental in bringing the different Leagues to an earlier conclusion than was at first expected.

F. A. Lose Valuable Official

FOR nearly two seasons the Football Association has benefited by the advice given them by Commander T. A. Hussey, one of their vice-presidents, but he left for Home during the week. His place on the Council will be filled by Commander Arbuthnot.

R. A. Lyemun In Second Division

AFTER their experiment of playing in the First Division of the Hong Kong Football League last season Lyemun have decided to enter the Second Division next season, where they should do well.

Hachiuma Returns With Bride

Y. HACHIUMA, the well-known local Japanese tennis player and baseballer, returned to the Colony from Japan, where he went to get married, last Saturday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hachiuma and the young couple were the recipients of the congratulations of their many friends when they paid a visit to the Craignower Cricket Club a few hours after their arrival in the Colony.

The K.C.C. quartette won by 21 shots to enable their side to win 22 shots. ("Herald" photos).

Rapley's Tennis Hopes

W. CRICKET Club first eleven cricketer, is taking to tennis very seriously and is seen at practice very often at the Happy Valley club, for whom he hopes to play in the League this summer.

Ismail To Play For C.C.C.

A. K. ISMAIL, who was captain of the Indian Recreation Club second eleven that won the junior cricket shield for 1935-6, has now thrown in his lot with the Craignower Cricket Club and hopes to play tennis for them this summer.

Civil Service Loss

THE Civil Service Cricket Club have lost a staunch member in Mr. Alderman, who left with Mrs. Alderman for Home during the week. Mr. Alderman was for many years a regular member of the senior bowls team, while Mrs. Alderman was a regular attendant at all the Club's whist drives.

K.C.C. Have Fine All-Rounder

H. N. NEVE, the latest acquisition to the Kowloon Cricket Club's cricket section, is a fine all-rounder, having played good class Rugby at Home—he, however, intends to stick to cricket next season. He has also played water-polo and will probably be trained for the "Y" team.

New Water-Polo Coach

G. R. CAMERON, R.A., who has long since given up active participation in water-polo, is still very keen on the game and gives up a lot of his time to coaching the 24th. Battery team at Stonecutters.

Rifles' Water-Polo Series

THE Royal Ulster Rifles are at present holding their annual Inter-Platoon water-polo series in the European Y.M.C.A. pool and the pick of all competing teams will represent the Battalion in the Small and Large Units Knock-out tournaments, which commence next month.

Silva As Snipe-Shooter

C. G. SILVA, the leading Reccelo skip in the lawn bowls League, is also a first-class shot—he goes out snipe-shooting in the New Territories very often, and his record "bag" is over 200 birds for a week-end.

Tong Kwan To Start Training

TONG KWAN, the former South China "B" player, who did not play last season owing to illness, will be playing for the Eastern baseball team this summer in order to keep fit for the coming soccer season.

Miss Helbling On Leave

MISS B. HELBLING, one of the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Club's most prominent defenders, left the Colony for Home recently. She will be away for about six months.

Important "Y" Aquatic Meeting

AN important meeting of the swimming Section of the European Y.M.C.A. will be held next Friday afternoon to discuss the prospects of the season and, if possible, to arrange a gala for next month, as this will be the last occasion on which Mr. E. F. "Bob" Selk, the popular Assistant Secretary of the "Y", will be able to attend, as he leaves for England at the end of next month.

Jockey Settles Down To Bowls

H. V. PEARSE, the novice jockey, is now devoting all his spare time to lawn bowls. He hopes, however, to be in the saddle again after the summer recess. In the meantime he states that he will try and lose some weight.

The R.M.S. "Queen Mary" is here seen entering the King George V drydock at Southampton. The dock was specially built for her and is the largest in the world. It is 1,200 feet long and 135 feet wide, has a depth of 60 feet and can take a vessel of 100,000 tons. It holds 58 million gallons and can be emptied in four hours. The large vessel in the background is the recently sold-for-scraping Majestic, the third largest vessel in the world. The Majestic, like the Queen Mary, was lubricated by Gargoyle Lubricating Oils—sister products to Mobiloil and Socony Gasoline.

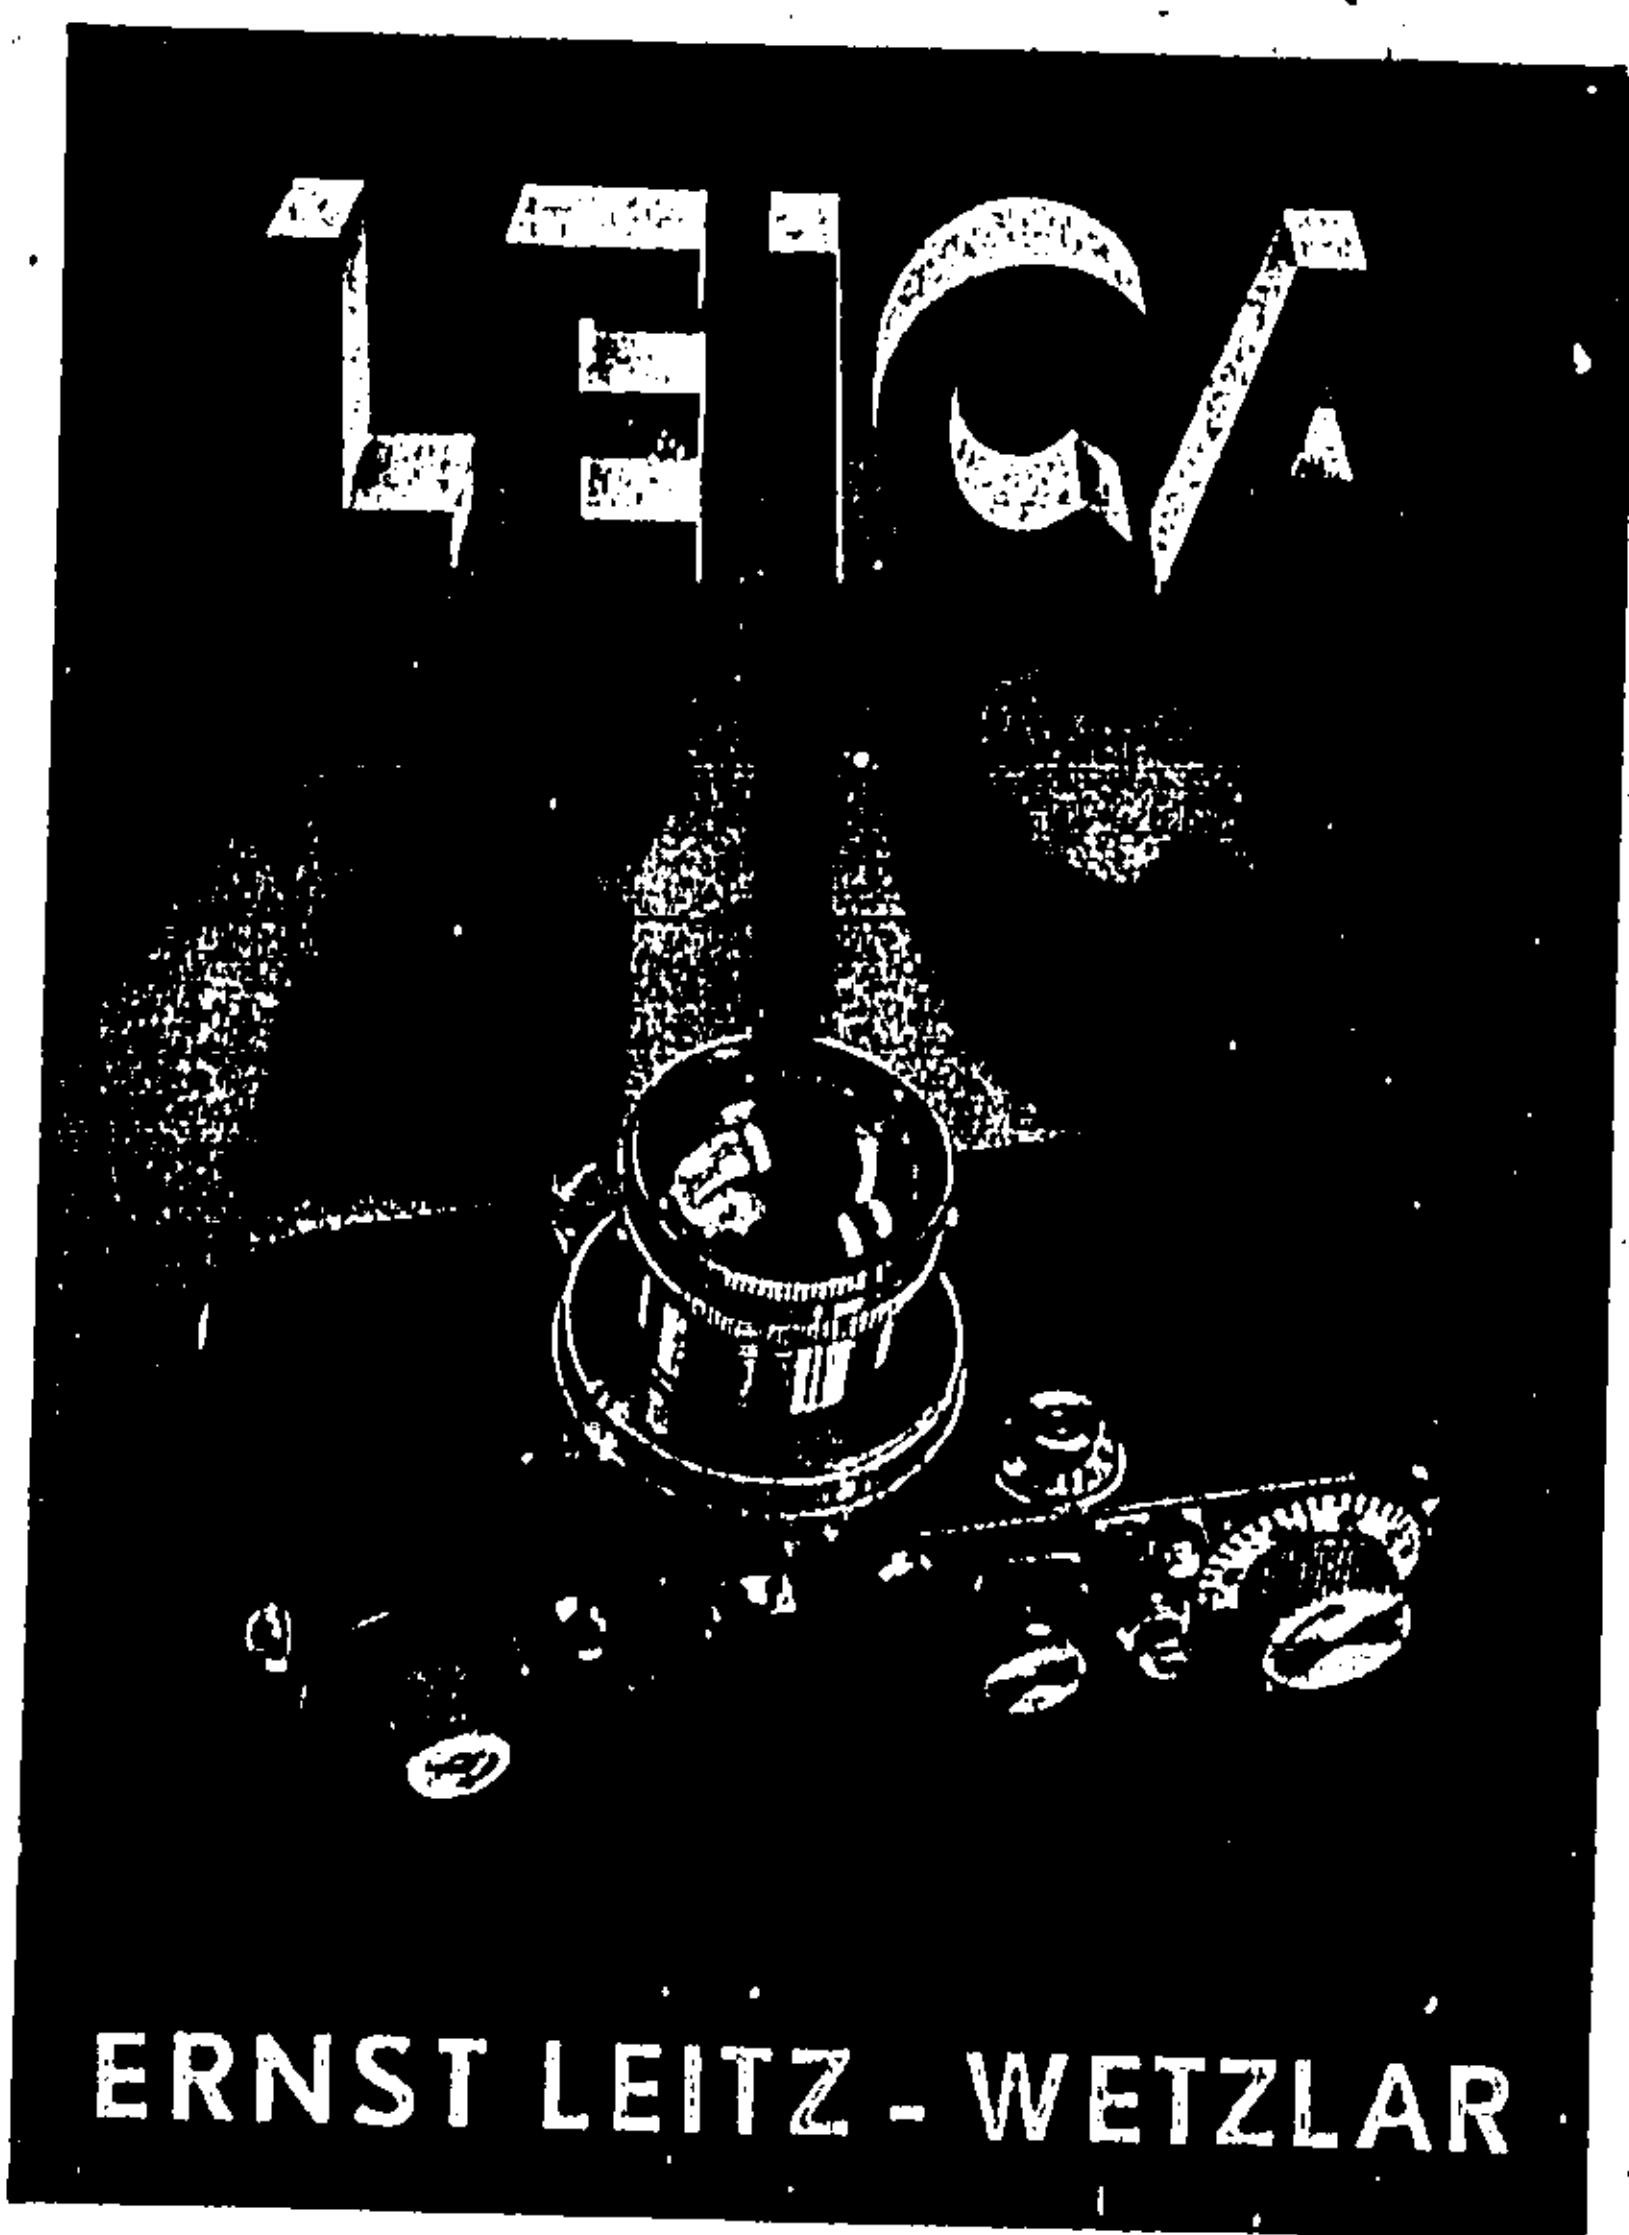

CAMERA NOTES OF CURRENT FASHIONS

Perfect for all around summer service is this collarless double-breasted coat of light tan wool, worn by Margaret Lindsey of the film. Her tilt-brimmed hat has row on row of stitched angora.

This formal tunic gown of red crepe with silver sequins liberally splashed over the material illustrates the trend in colour for this season's summer formals. White chignon makes a neat bow at neck and waist.
